SENATE VOTES TO DECLARE WAR ON AUSTRO-HUNGARY

No Votes Cast Against the War Resolution—Senator La Follette Was Not Present When the Vote Was Taken.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The senate this afternoon adopted the resolution declaring war on Austria-Hungary after unexpectedly brief debate. The measure would have been agreed to without a roll call, but Senator Stone, chairman of the foreign relations committee, insisted that a record vote be taken.

Not a vote was cast against the war resolution.

The record stood 74 to 0. All of the pacifist group present voted for the resolution. Senator La Follette was not in the chamber when the roll was called. His right hand man, Senator Gronna, of North Dakota, voted for the resolution, however.

Just before the roll was called, Senator Vandaman, of Mississippi, quit the pacifist camp and announced that he would give his whole hearted support to the war.

12 ACCEPTED FOR SERVICE

Sergeant Hamilton of Poughkeepsie examined and accepted 12 more Kingston young men for various branches of service at the armory on Thursday evening. Six others were told to report for re-examination.

Those accepted for Aviation Corps were John Hickey, John McNeely, Edward Kioskie and Bernard Alcon; Hospital Corps, Harold Soule and William DeKoskie; 23rd Engineers, Walter Gunn of Hunter, N. Y., James Johnson and John Hickey; Quartermaster's Department, Harrison Ford. The names of the two others accepted will be published later.

This morning Walter Gunn and John Hickey, two of the successful applicants last night, accompanied Officer Hamilton to Poughkeepsie where they will be assigned to their respective units in the Engineers Corps. Harry Rieser and Clyde K. Wood also accompanied the officer with intentions of enlisting at Poughkeepsie today.

A large number of recruits will go to the Bridge City Monday morning at 9:05 and also on the 12:05 train on Tuesday, but the momentum of recruits is so great that a first lieutenant and non-commissioned officer of the regular army are coming to the armory Monday night from 7 to 9 o'clock, where they will give information and examine those desiring to enlist in any of these branches of service. Those who cannot go to Poughkeepsie Monday morning or to the armory Monday night should accompany Recruiting Officer William C. DeWitt to Poughkeepsie on the 12:05 train Tuesday noon, as this is the last opportunity to enlist in Kingston before the draft becomes operative. Transportation for volunteers has been arranged, so report at the West Shore station at 12:05 on Tuesday noon.

Quarrymen, iron workers and firemen are especially urged to accompany Mr. DeWitt Tuesday.

MOVIES TAKEN ON HISTORIC GROUND

Yesterday the lawn of the Old Senate House was made the scene of what will be history in a few weeks. When the moving pictures taken in Kingston will be thrown upon the screen.

As soon as the uneasy pupils were released from the schools, Scout headquarters was a bee hive of boys and girls in uniform answering a call to report at sundown to be shot by the camera man. Over 70 boys and girls were put into line by Deputy Commissioner Whitaker and marched to the scene of action. Lewie was on the job with the machine gun and after the usual "Ready, Action, Camera pick it up," he began to grind into the roll of film the happy faces of boys and girls who have seen service "Over Here" selling Liberty bonds and securing members for the food administration.

The four minute men will continue to speak on the Boy Scout campaign. The speakers for tonight are: Opera House—Alfred D. Van Buren.

Auditorium—Hon. Charles W. Walton.

Orpheum—Prof. M. J. Michael.

WAR AT A GLANCE

In the sector of the Scarpe river, south of Lens, the German artillery has increased its cannonading to great violence, the war office announced today.

Another respite in the battle of Cambrai was reported. The only activity on this front during the night was carried out by raiding parties and patrols.

In a wake of a heavy bombardment on the Verdun front the Germans made two attacks during the night, but both were repulsed, the war office stated this afternoon. Both assaults, which were made in force, took place on the eastern bank of the Meuse and there was violent fighting around Bezonvaux and Beaumont.

Waistcoats specially heated with electricity were worn by the crews of two German aeroplanes that were shot down during the raid over London and the southeastern coast yesterday.

Heavy fighting may be expected all winter with Germany making her maximum effort in February, according to an article today in Premier Clemenceau's newspaper L'Homme Libre. It is written by an observer in Switzerland, who is in a position to know something of Germany's military plans and hopes.

Berlin, Dec. 7.—Austro-Hungarian forces fighting with the Germans in northern Italy have captured Monte Sionof by storm, the war office announced this afternoon. The war office claims the capture of 4,000 additional Italian prisoners, bringing the total number taken by the invaders since the new offensive was launched on Wednesday up to 15,000.

BRITISH AVIATORS AID ITALIANS

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Washington, Dec. 7.—More than 100 British aviators have arrived safely on the Italian front to aid in stemming the advance of the Austro-German armies, according to official advices reaching here today.

Word of the arrival of the British aviators after a record breaking flight from the western front across the Alps to northern Italy may now be printed for the first time.

Single machines have made longer flights than that undertaken by so large a fleet of aircraft. The word that the men and machines had reached the Italian front in safety was taken to mean that there had been no mishaps of any kind on the way.

ARMISTICE ON EASTERN FRONT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Amsterdam, Dec. 7.—An armistice went into effect on the whole of the eastern front today, according to a dispatch from Berlin, which stated that official announcement to that effect had been made there.

This is the first armistice to be declared since the outbreak of the war and the German and Austrian governments are doing their utmost to make it a preliminary to peace negotiations.

It is assumed that the cessation of fighting extends to the Roumanian front as well, as it had previously been stated that negotiations were extending to that section of the front held by the Roumanian army.

The armistice is to last ten days but in the meantime the Russian, German and Austrian commissioners continue their sessions at Brest Litovsk, the headquarters of Prince Leopold of Bavaria, the commander in chief of the German forces in the east.

Patriotic Rally Tonight.

This evening the Kingston Local Union of Christian Endeavor will hold a big patriotic rally in the Ponckhookie Church on Abrvryn street, and an interesting program has been arranged for the occasion.

YACHT SHULTZ DID NOT MAKE TRIPS

Too Heavy Ice in Rondout Creek Today—Coldest Night of Season Registering 10 Above Zero—Other Notes.

Thursday night was the coldest so far this season, registering 10 above zero—the lowest mark reported. An indication in the drop in the temperature was found late Thursday afternoon as the air grew colder and during the night wintry blasts rattled and shook the blinds of the houses about town.

So heavy was the ice in the Rondout creek that the steam yacht C. A. Shultz, plying between Rondout and Eddyville, did not make her trips today but remained berthed at Connelly. Captain Chris. Haber said this morning that the question of the yacht making any further trips this season would depend entirely upon weather conditions.

While towing on the upper Hudson is at a standstill, owing to the ice, a tow left this port this morning for points south.

From Catskill comes the announcement that the Catskill Evening Line is still running and would continue running until stopped by the ice.

The yacht Messenger, which was bought some time ago by Alderman John A. Fischer of the Seventh ward, has been sold by him to New York parties and left the creek Thursday for New York.

C. OF C. TO BOOST INLAND WATERWAYS

Secretary Heermans of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce announced this morning that Mayor Palmer Canfield, Jr., will represent Kingston and the Chamber of Commerce at the conference to be held in New York city next Monday forenoon by members of the National Committee on Inland Water Transportation.

Mayor Canfield is chairman of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce committee on river navigation and is equipped with full data and information showing the probable amount of tonnage which could be sent over the new barge canal from Kingston when it opens next spring. Secretary Heermans stated that this conference is of vital importance to Kingston and the Hudson river valley and is part of the program which the Kingston Chamber of Commerce has had under consideration for some time. The movement will also be a part of the program for 1918. Secretary Heermans stated that he was delighted that the mayor had consented to attend this meeting for he is peculiarly well adapted to handle the subject, both as a representative of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce and the municipality. The mayor has promised to get back in time for the dinner to be held at the Eagle Hotel on Monday evening.

"This water transportation problem is one of the many things," said Secretary Heermans this morning, "which the Chamber of Commerce plans and carries to execution or, as in this instance, co-operates with organizations of other cities such as Albany, which does not appear on the surface to the membership and which they are frequently in the dark about. It is our purpose to keep the public of Kingston fully informed about such matters at the proper time."

Mayor Canfield stated today that he would be very glad to have any other member of the committee, any of the members of the Kingston Chamber of Commerce, or any shipper or other person here interested in the Inland Waterway question to go to New York with him on Monday and attend the conference.

CORDTS ROSE WILL HONOR SOLDIERS

At the annual meeting of John N. Cordts Rose Company, No. 8, held Thursday evening it was decided to hold a banquet at Pessanar's Hotel, Wednesday evening, December 12, at 5 o'clock, in honor of the members of the company who will leave with the next contingent and those who are about to enlist in the service. Entertainment and speakers are being arranged to make the occasion a memorable one.

The officers elected for the ensuing year are: The Hon. W. N. Gill, president; Lemar Crawford, honorary vice president; John Williams, foreman; Martin J. Schleede, first assistant foreman; George Plunthaber, second assistant foreman; Harry S. Conklin, treasurer; P. M. Leveich, secretary; Peter A. Carey, delegate to N. Y. F. A.; Charles Lahl, Jr., delegate to F. F. A.

On the evening of the 12th, the members will meet at the Rose house at 5 o'clock and proceed in a body to Pessanar's, where a good time is anticipated.

Preaching by Dr. Chase.

The Rev. Dr. P. N. Chase will preach at Flatbush Sunday morning and at Lake Katrine in the evening.

TAYLOR MURDER IS STILL A MYSTERY

Grand Jury Dismisses the Charge Against the Two Colored Women Suspected of Being Responsible for the Crime.

The failure of the grand jury to indict the two colored women, Emma Coles and Mary Hopkins, for the murder at East Kingston of Joe Taylor, a negro, puts this crime in the mystery class, for it is understood that these two women mentioned were the only persons against whom there was any suspicion.

Taylor, who was employed in the Washburn brickyard at East Kingston, was murdered Saturday evening, October 20, at East Kingston, in the shack occupied by Louis Braddock and George Graves. The crime was evidently committed with a long knife or stiletto. Taylor was dead when a doctor from this city arrived at the scene of the crime. A razor was found near Taylor's body, but it is not thought that the crime was committed with the razor.

The crime was investigated thoroughly by the officials from the district attorney's office and the sheriff's office, and as the result of the statements of several persons in East Kingston, Anna Coles and Mary Hopkins were arrested at Ulster Landing the next day, upon suspicion of knowing something about the crime.

Later the two colored women were arraigned before Justice of the Peace Michael DeCicco at East Kingston. They waived examination and were held for the grand jury.

The colored women, when arrested, admitted being in the shack at the time of the crime, but denied all knowledge of it, and would make no further statement of any kind relative to the matter.

When Taylor's body was found in the shack there was blood all around and two distinct trails of blood leading to the door of the shack. There were miscellaneous footprints in the shack.

It is thought that the crime was committed during a drunken brawl.

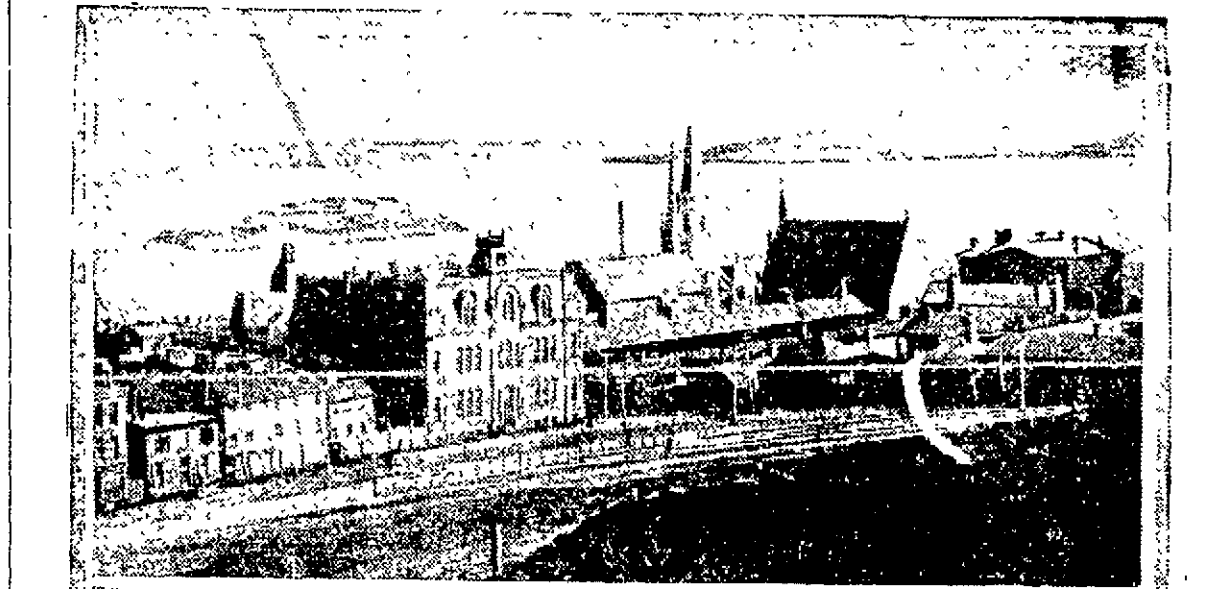

Almost a Collision.

An accident which might have resulted in serious injury created some excitement on Broadway near Franklin street this morning. Burt Davis, proprietor of the Opera Lunch on Fair street, was proceeding down Broadway in his automobile and as he neared the fruit and fish market of John Fatum, Mr. Fatum, who was turning his rig around, drove directly in front of the onrushing machine.

To avoid hitting the rig Mr. Davis quickly steered his car toward the curb, striking the iron fence in front of the residence of Mrs. H. D. Inalls on the corner of Broadway and Franklin street. The resistance of the iron fence badly damaged the front of the automobile but no one was injured. It could not be ascertained who was to blame for the accident.

HALIFAX CATASTROPHE GROWS MORE APPALLING

Dead Estimated at 3,000 to 5,000, of Whom Many Were Blown Into Fragments—Rushing Help to the Stricken City—Property Loss is Enormous.

SCENE IN HALIFAX

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 7.—At least 3,000 lives were lost here in yesterday's disaster, according to latest police estimates this afternoon. But as the hours pass the horror of the catastrophe grows, and it is possible that this estimate may be exceeded, and may reach 5,000.

City authorities declared this afternoon that it will be many days before an accurate estimate of the dead can be made. Scores of persons were blown to atoms and identification is practically impossible.

Several hundred persons are missing and are believed to have perished, but they have not yet been included in the list of dead.

An area of more than two square miles is in waste and the property of every stricken city—the work of ghoul.

It is impossible to give a fair estimate of property loss. Some say it will reach two millions; others say it will exceed ten millions.

Property escaping the terrific shock was razed by the subsequent flames. Fires broke out in dozens of places and a crippled fire department, though aided by out of town apparatus, was helpless.

The gas and electric plants were put out of commission. In many instances the firemen were compelled to give their attention to rescue work and to permit the flames to burn themselves out.

The individual tales of suffering and death are almost too frightful to chronicle. In one instance, a large school building was shattered and then almost completely destroyed by flames. With it perished approximately 300 school children. But five escaped.

It was in Richmond, opposite the scene of the explosion, that the havoc was the greatest. Street after street today is littered with the debris of former homes and twisted steel and wire. For blocks on many Richmond streets, not a house is left standing.

Many Richmond citizens, just leaving their homes on their way to business, were picked bodily from the streets and hurled through the air. Others were struck by flying debris or buried beneath falling houses.

The scene in Halifax harbor was almost equally appalling. Many soldiers, marines and members of crews or vessels lying in the harbor were killed outright. Others were hurled into the water with no chance of escape.

Lighter vessels were crushed as egg shells and, if occupied, the occupants perished.

Appeals for assistance have been sent out to all surrounding cities and towns and the work of rescue has reached a semi-state of business management.

This work was carried on throughout the night by the aid of lanterns and lamps. The flickering lights only added to the scene of horror, destruction and death.

Truro, a town 75 miles distant, reports having distinctly felt the shock of the explosion. All surrounding telegraph and telephone wires were destroyed and for hours Halifax was completely isolated.

The call for supplies, bedding and blankets is emphasized. Glass, tin paper and lumber are also badly needed.

Various reasons are advanced as to the cause of the collision between the two vessels. The most plausible is that confusion followed a series of whistles sounded by the Belgian relief ship.

The fire on both vessels, which preceded the explosion, is said to have been caused by a deck load of benzine carried by the munitions ship.

The area wrecked by the explosion includes an extensive residential section as well as numerous institutions, banks and government buildings.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Halifax, N. S., Dec. 7.—Halifax, the chief naval station of British North America, is today "The City of Ruins."

The terrible explosion of yesterday when the Mont Blanc, a French munitions ship, was rammed by the Imo, a Belgian relief steamer, left in its wake a staggering picture of death and destruction.

More than 3,000 men, women and children are dead. Hundreds are dying from injuries and the number of those receiving injuries of less importance cannot be computed at this hour.

In the city of more than 50,000 population, there is today an area of nearly three square miles in which not one building is left standing. Along the water front, warehouses and other structures also are razed.

Such beautiful structures as the Dominion Building, the Provincial Parliament Building, the Government House, and the Dalhousie College are now temporary hospitals and morgues.

Churches, public houses and those of the private dwellings which were spared by the almost indescribable concussion, are receiving the dead and injured and the work of rescue continues.

Long lines of vehicles pick their way through the debris, headed for the morgues and hospitals.

Again and again from a band of rescuer comes an audible sigh as another charred and unrecognizable body is drawn from the ruins.

Relatives, frantic with grief, scurry from one place to another, ever hoping their dear ones have escaped the awful carnage, are searching for those they love.

Physicians, surgeons, and nurses, from towns and cities within a radius of eighty miles have been hurried to the scene and have joined in the work of rescue and succor.

The presence of hundreds of troops has proved a God-send. It helps their immediate duty to patrol the stricken city and prevent the menace of every stricken city—the work of ghoul.

Vanheboro, Me., Dec. 7.—The Massachusetts relief special, bearing Red Cross doctors and nurses from Boston, reached the Canadian border at 8:25 a. m. The train was twenty minutes ahead of its schedule. It will arrive at Halifax this afternoon. The train carries eleven surgeons, ten nurses, twenty Red Cross relief workers and a carload of medical and other supplies.

New York, Dec. 7.—New York sent out its first relief train to Halifax shortly before noon today.

This action followed the receipt of advices from the American Red Cross Society at Washington detailing the devastation following the explosion on the munitions ship in the Halifax harbor yesterday.

Food, emergency surgical outfits, blankets, coats and medical supplies were included in the first consignment.

Plans are under way for the equipping of the second relief train, which will leave New York for Halifax tonight.

What Better For Christmas Than Gifts for Classy Clad Feet

E. T. Stelle & Son, as is their Custom, are Putting Out Sensible Suggestions Adaptable to Christmas (By The Freeman's Mysterious Mr. Fox.)

Never has the Christmas holidays so conspicuously directed the attention of shoppers for Christmas presents to well considered gifts in as many smart styles of feet covering as in E. T. Stelle & Son's stock of all-style, easy fit and serviceable 1917 productions.

Selected pre-eminently, this season, for the adaptability of their lines to Christmas shopping, this firm submits a range of sensible and enjoyable gifts for man, woman or child.

What is more acceptable to anyone than a pair of fancy or house slippers. The variations in shades, shapes and material E. T. Stelle & Son display give smartly, dressy slippers for the ball room costume, slippers that richly set off the house gown or smoking jacket for an "evening indoors," and all of which tastefully embellish the Christmas day package and will be shown with pride by the recipient in the morning.

What is more appropriate for mother and the girls than those slender, classy over-gaiters with broadcloth tops that give varying colored patterns to harmonize with their gowns, and are indispensable in winter, such as E. T. Stelle & Son fortunately secured for their trade.

What is better for women and girls than the 1917 conceptions of the best makers in walking and dress shoes with plain or fancy tops, made strictly to insure comfort, style and service?

Nothing more appropriate for the children's Christmas such as are produced by E. T. Stelle & Son than the prettily designed, shapely shoes that help the little feet to shape right in their growth. E. T. Stelle & Son give educated attention, in fact, in the fitting of shoes with adults as well as children. They will give the boys and girls pleasure when disclosed to them on Christmas morning. And this firm in all its years of trading with the public have made the care of children's sensitive feet their special purpose in selecting and fitting shoes for youngsters.

E. T. Stelle & Son have procured many styles of shoes, slippers and articles for selections that will be pleasing to the men and youth to whom they will be most acceptable gifts.

You may be sure that whatever you select you'll find Christmas shopping with them pleasing to yourself and satisfactory to those you are remembering.—Advertisement.

New Repair Machine Meets War Demands To Save Rubber

People are Taking Arctics and Rain Coats To Big Shop for Repairs

(By The Freeman's Mysterious Mr. Fox.)

A most efficient compliance with war demands is to save rubber. The machine for vulcanizing rubber installed in Israel's large electric shoe repair shop at 37 N. Front street makes perfect and genteel repairs of rubber of all kinds. Where you formerly threw away the old arctics, the old rubbers and rubber garments because no repairs could be made or if any at all they were crude and unsatisfactory; this machine which Israel introduces in Kingston now puts them in perfect condition, making them serviceable and genteel. Many hundreds of dollars are saved in a large community where these machines are operated.

Now is the time to get the repairs

THIS DEAL SEEMS QUEER TO HIM

Local Young Man Accepted in Regular Army and Told to Report Monday, but Local Exemption Board Refuses to Release Him: "Ting-a-ling" went the telephone bell in the house of a Freeman reporter late Thursday evening.

Like all good reporters he had gone to bed early and suddenly he dreamed that he was covering a fire and heard the fire bell ring and as he leaped out of bed and his feet hit the cold floor he was brought quickly to the realization that it was his telephone bell insistently ringing.

"Hello," said the reporter sleepily as he took down the receiver with one hand and rubbed his eye with the other hand.

"I have a question I would like The Freeman to answer," said the voice on the other end of the telephone line in reply to the reporter's.

"What's that?" asked the reporter. The voice continued "I read in your paper the other night that if a man enlisted before December 15 in the army he would be released from the draft."

"Huh," replied the reporter not fully awake yet.

"And taking that for granted I was one of the several who went with Postmaster DeWitt to a recruiting station where I was examined and accepted and told to report Monday at sundown at Fort Slocum."

"Well, I suppose you will," interrupted the reporter still not fully awake.

"I told the lieutenant in charge of the recruiting station that I was in this draft but he said I would undoubtedly get released by my exemption board and to take it up with them when I got home."

"I did, and do you know what occurred?"

"No, what?" asked the reporter now fully awake.

"They refused to give me my release papers," said the voice.

It was at this point that the reporter began to think that the voice at the other end of the line had a familiar note and he asked "Is this you talking?" name deleted.

And when the reply was in the affirmative the reporter was more interested in the situation as he knew the young man talking.

It developed that the young man had been accepted as a chauffeur which was just in his line of work for he had been running cabs for several years. He had also seen service on the Texas border during our recent Mexican trouble.

The question that the young man wanted settled was why could not the exemption board give him his release papers and allow him to enlist for immediate service instead of waiting for no one knows how long before he was told to report at Camp Dix in the National Army.

At the present time he has been unable to secure a position because he was subject to draft and he is tired of "hanging around" doing nothing and so decided to enlist in the regular army.

Trees in Greenland. Lofly trees once grew in Greenland and nearly all of the inhospitable northern lands. Trees of the same sorts as are growing today are found as fossil remains in countries where the climate is now so harsh that scarcely any tree will grow even a few inches high.

JOE CHOYINSKI REPORTED BATTLING FOR LIFE.

Joe Choyinski, one of the best known and cleverest boxers who ever entered the ring, former heavy weight champion of the world, is reported battling for life at his home in Pittsburgh. He is suffering with the same disease that carried off Bob Fitzsimmons—pleuro-pneumonia. Incidentally, Choyinski gave Fitzsimmons one of the hardest battles of his career. The photograph shows Choyinski, Jim Jeffries and Jim Corbett, photographed at the time Jeffries was training, with the help of Choyinski and Corbett, for the fight with Jack Johnson.

ELLENVILLE.

Ellenville, Dec. 7.—The November report of the Ellenville Branch of the Kingston Chapter of the American Red Cross which includes the articles made during the month at Ellenville. Kerhonkson, Wawarsing, Peekamoos, Greenfield and Spring Glen as follows: Hand knitted socks 37 pairs. Sweaters 23. Scarfs 40. Wristlets 27 pairs. Helmets 18. Machine knitted socks 12 pairs. Bed shoes, 23 pairs. Night shirts, 1. Operating aprons, 2. Hot water bags, 33. Wash cloths, 3. Suits of pajamas, 49. Ten drafted and enlisted were equipped at the Red Cross rooms in Ellenville during the month with hand knitted socks, 30 pairs. Wristlets, 9 pairs. Scarfs, 9. Helmets, 1. Mrs. Holman, chairman of supply department.

On Friday evening at the M. E. Church at Napanoch the boys from Division No. 3, who are ordered to Camp Dix will be given a reception. There will be music and speaking by prominent men. The boys will leave Napanoch Saturday morning for Camp Dix going by way of Summitville on the O. & W. R. R.

At a recent meeting of the village board, Mr. Austin of the Monarch Road Machine Co., was present and the board decided to purchase for the village a Climax Standard 2,700 pound road machine. The same to be shipped at once. A communication from the U. S. Recruiting station was received requesting the village to provide suitable rooms for the publicity officials of the recruiting department who will be here on December 13. The clerk was instructed to provide rooms and to assist wherever possible.

Documentary revenue stamps for use on legal documents, etc., can now be obtained at the local post office.

Mrs. Lydia Erath of Grahamsville is spending the week with her sister-in-law, Mrs. Mary Bishop, on Route road.

Joseph Hall of Walkkill has been spending the week in town with relatives and friends.

Arthur Westbrook and wife and Paul Westbrook have been at the Westbrook on Broadhead street this week. Arthur will soon leave for San Antonio, Texas, where he will be in the Aviation Signal Corps.

Edward Gillman has been visiting his brother, William, a student at Cornell.

Mrs. O'Neill on Park street has been entertaining her sons, Jarome O'Neill, J. Vincent O'Neill and family and Lawrence O'Neill the past week.

Mrs. Louisa Patch has gone to spend the winter with friends at Goshen, New York.

Freil Freer succeeds Antoine Herberg at the local Adams Express Company office. Mr. Herberg returns to his old position with the Express Company on the road.

Mrs. Jacob Lock of Essex street has gone to New York to visit her sister who recently underwent a serious operation but is coming on all right.

Mrs. Catherine Boyer is seriously ill at the home of her relative, Mrs. George R. Andrews on Center street.

J. Edward O'Neill and Arthur Wright from Fort Terry have been home on a few days' furlough.

Cards received by friends announce the safe arrival of Mr. and Mrs. George E. Edsall at Jacksonville, Fla.

Mrs. William R. Graham has returned from a visit with relatives at New Brunswick, N. J.

Miss Elizabeth Ford of Port Chester has been visiting her aunt, Mrs. W. P. Cleveland, the past week.

Edwin C. Eckert of Bridgeport, Conn., has been at his home on Tut-hill lane for a visit.

DeLoris Tice of Philadelphia, formerly of Ellenville, visited his aunt, Mrs. George C. Mackey and cousin, Miss Kate Mackey, on Clinton avenue the past week.

Mrs. Albert E. Fuller has been entertaining her relatives, Mr. and Mrs. Stratton and daughter and Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Keanan of New York at her home on Laurens road the past week.

President Frank J. Potter of the Ulster County Agricultural Society was re-elected at the recent election of officers for the coming year.

Judge and Mrs. W. D. Cunningham have been visiting friends at Providence, R. I.

Miss Ella Haight, who has resided in Ellenville many years as a member of the Brewer home, expects to go to live with her mother near Walkkill. The Brewer estate has been purchased by William H. Sawyer, who owns the Red Mill at the West End. He and his wife are to occupy the residence after it is thoroughly renovated and extensive repairs are made.

Frank V. Sanford has closed his shop on Main street and will spend the winter at Jacksonville, Fla.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Nichols have closed their home at Greenfield and are to spend the winter with their son Albert Nichols and family in Chicago.

Ellenville friends are pleased to know that Judge LeRoy Lounsbury and Mrs. Lounsbury are to remain in Ellenville, where both have many friends during their residence here.

The stores of the village present a fine appearance in their holiday attire. All new and up-to-date goods can always be found in the local stores. The windows are especially attractive at this time. Among the many attractive windows is the one large window in the Fred Groo store displaying a large line of soldier toys for the children, all made in America. The young and old alike stand long to look upon the window so attractive.

Ellenville is to welcome Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Richard of Grahamsville who are moving to the village. Harrison has taken a position with Mr. Boper.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Ackerly have been spending the week with old home friends at Grahamsville. Floyd has enlisted, been accepted as a mechanic and will soon be in the service.

Solutions of The Christmas Gift Problem

If Christmas giving were regulated by common sense and affection there would not be so many persons in the shops these days sighing to themselves, "Ten more presents and only $5! How will I do it?"

Begin with the baby. Crochet in single open stitch a circle of height worsted, cord, silk or coarse thread, just big enough to cover a rubber bouncing ball. Run a drawing thread through the edges, tie the circle to fit well over the ball and then attach a long, bright string.

Or make him this adorable jacket and cap of white cashmere, the other variations being creamy, silk and white linen. On the folded back front embroider tiny forget-me-nots to match those down the front of the jacket. Hemstitch the cap strings and scallop all other edges.

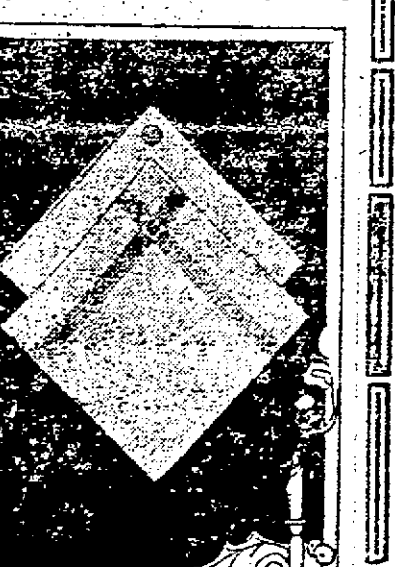

For mother make several skirt hangers. Purchase a five-cent skirt hanger, next a five-cent pan of gold watercolor paint. Carefully gild the two wooden ends of the hanger. Then wrap the wire portion of the hanger with narrow pale blue ribbon. This will cost five cents a yard, and two yards will be necessary and provide for boys.

Grandma will like a knitting bag crocheted in fine macrame cord, which is lined with cherry-colored silk so her knitting needles won't poke through. The fringe is a big addition, as the cut proves.

We have always known of hand embroidered and initialed kerchiefs as gifts for all male members of our social circles. But the idea of providing men with plenty of big, gay sports kerchiefs is new. You may buy by the yard fine linen in sports colors and hemstitch them yourself, or you may buy two-tone kerchiefs and then make red, blue, yellow and green monograms in the corners. Just like those in the pictures. Men love to flaunt these gay mementos.

Just copy his signature, transfer it to the corner of a handkerchief and embroider with the "over-and-over" stitch. This makes an individual gift which will please any man.

Knows No Bounds.

Wherever the tree of beneficence takes root, it sends forth branches beyond the sky.—Saadi.

TO HELP FARMERS RAISE MORE MEAT

Patriotic Farmers' Fund Will Advance $100 to Buy Swine, $300 to Buy Sheep, at Interest of 6 Per Cent.

The Patriotic Farmers' Fund announces through its secretary, Marc W. Cole of Utica, N. Y., that it is prepared to finance farmers in their efforts to increase the production of sleep and swine.

"We don't want to interfere with the larger live stock interests announced by the banks," said Mr.
Cole. "But we want to reach the smaller operator who needs a little capital. We will also lend to buy registered sires for improving stock on the borrower's farm."

Farmers will be extended a credit not to exceed $100 each for the purchase of swine and not to exceed $300 for the purchase of sheep. At present prices, this assistance would enable the borrower to purchase about 15 first-class breeding ewes. The purchase of pure bred sires will also be encouraged. The rate of interest has been fixed at 6 per cent.

The farm boys and girls of New York State will be provided for as well as the older farmers. Members of the Sheep and Pig Clubs will be loaned money for the purchase of stock on their personal notes. This has been done in other sections and the young people have proved faithful to the trust reposed in them.

Those desiring to secure assistance from the Farmers' Patriotic Fund must secure the approval of their local committee. There are already 550 such committees in the state.
Funds will be available through 314 agent banks. Farmers who have the approval of their local loan committee not furnish any other security or endorsement.

No loans will be made on beef or dairy cattle as the purpose of the loans is primarily to enable farmers to furnish meat quickly to meet the present war needs. It is maintained that pork and mutton can be produced much more quickly than beef.

During the past season, the fund has advanced $400,000 to farmers chiefly for the purchase of seeds and fertilizers and to pay for labor required to work the increased acreage of crops so urgently needed in the present emergency. The notes were secured, yet the farmers have proved prompt and faithful in meeting their obligations. This, too, in spite of an adverse season caused by continuous rains, an early frost and the drafting of farm labor.

It is believed that there will be a great demand for the loans during the next few months. The Farm Bureaus and the extension department of the agricultural college at Cornell University will assist in making the movement a success.

METACAHONTS.

Metacahonts, Dec. 6.—Miss Rissa
L. Jones returned home on Monday after a very pleasant stay of a week with friends in and near Walden and Plattekill.

Mr. and Mrs. George Kelder entertained for the Thanksgiving holidays Mr. and Mrs. Valk of Poughkeepsie.

Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Kelder entertained for Thanksgiving Mr. and Mrs. Smeon, Osterhout, and Miss Lillian Enderly of Whitfield, and a very pleasant day was spent.

Mrs. Herbert Mackey and two children, Lorin and Mary, of Highland were the guests on Friday for the day of Mrs. E. D. Markle and daughter.

Ralph Emory left this week for Bridgeport, Conn., where he will have employment.

Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Miller returned home on Thursday of last week, having spent their honeymoon with relatives at Poughkeepsie and Kingston.

Mrs. S. E. Churchwell spent from Thursday until Tuesday of this week with Mrs. W. H. Markle and daughter, assisting in the care of Mrs.
Markle.

Mrs. Pernie Hornbeck and daughters, Annie and Mildred, spent Thanksgiving Day with Mr. Hornbeck's mother, near Leibhardt.

John Vandemark and Elmer Hendrickson enjoyed a day's hunting on Thursday at Napanoch and Greenfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Friend Willow entertained Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Boice, also Mrs. Boice's mother, Mrs. Lockwood, and several other friends for a delightful Thanksgiving dinner.

The children of Jane Miller recently spent the afternoon drawing wood for Mrs. Miller.

Miss Ada Baker has been seriously ill and under Dr. Fuller's care.

Mrs. Rachel Anderson is steadily improving again after her severe attack of gall stones last Friday.

Dr. Marks of Kingston, eye specialist, was through town on Monday desiring to fit people's eyes with new lenses.

Lloyd Snow has been spending some time at Andrew Krom's. We understand that Mr. Snow will not return to camp owing to his health.

Mrs. Amelia Miller called on her sisters, Mrs. Hannah M. Osterhout and Delilah Rider, on Sunday, and also on Mrs. W. H. Markle.

Miss Alida M. Osterhout of Stone Ridge Heights was entertained for Friday night supper at Mrs. E. D.
Markle's.

town on Monday looking for men to cut wood and was entertained for dinner at Ben Rider's.

Mr. and Mrs. William Wood and son, Gladys, were pleasantly entertained on Sunday by Mr. and Mrs.
Arthur Kelder.

Quite a scare was occasioned on Sunday evening by the fire at Kyserike, which lit up the sky so bright that it was thought to be closer by.
Prayer meeting was in progress when someone outside started the cry of fire and the seats quickly emptied. Some went to the scene of the fire.

Rev. Mr. Frost delivered a very interesting sermon on Sunday evening to a quite large audience.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Wood spent
Tuesday with Mr. and Mrs. William Wood.

Mrs. F. Zeaman visited her niece,
Mrs. Markle, on Sunday afternoon.

Mrs. H. M. Burger enjoyed her
Thanksgiving dinner with Mrs.
Rachel Anderson and Mrs. Bertha Baker.

A Christmas entertainment by the children is one of the looked forward to events.

Charles B. Osterhout bought a large porker, weighing 275 pounds, of Ben Rider.

A letter received by Mrs. Anderson from her daughter, Mrs. John Connolly, who resides in Arizona, reports sugar plentiful in that locality.

STATE TO TAKE A FARM CENSUS

By Telegraph to The Freeman
Albany, Dec. 7.—The state of New York will do everything within its power to insure bumper farm crops next year.

Farmers discouraged by their inability to secure labor this fall to harvest their crops will be assured of an ample supply next year.

Seeds, fertilizer and machinery will be made available so that they can increase their acreage.

In order that all these things may be assured next year, a state farm census is to be taken by the conservation bureau of the state food commission. This census will be complete in every way and will fully inform the commission in advance of the needs of the farmers in every way. The respective acreage will enable the commission to estimate the amount of labor necessary to harvest the crops and prepare for the farmers' needs.

Howard E. Babcock, director of the bureau of conservation, is now at work on plans for the census. County farm bureaus will be in charge of the census in each county and will be responsible for the accuracy of the data secured. An appropriation of $25,000 has been made in order that this work can be carried on efficiently.

The commission is preparing to take care of all demands for farm tractors for plowing. Even now rental applications are coming in and the commission will arrange to have on hand in the spring sufficient tractors to meet all demands. This will help increase crop acreage.

STONE RIDGE.

Stone Ridge, Dec. 6.—The C. E. Society will hold its annual sale of fancy and useful articles on Wednesday evening, December 12. Many of these articles are suitable for Christmas gifts. In connection with this sale there will be a prize speaking contest, beginning at 8 o'clock. There are three prizes for this contest, $3, $2 and $1. The judges are Miss Margaret Brier of Marletown, Dr. George Nash of Hurley and John M. Schoonmaker of Accord. Between the recitations there will be singing by some of the young people. These are now being trained by Mrs. East. Admission to hear the prize speaking, 10 cents. At the close of the contest, ice cream, cake, sandwiches and coffee will be for sale.

There will be moving pictures in the Grange Hall every Tuesday evening until further notice. The admission for all over 6 years old is 10 cents. One of the soldiers stationed near this village owns a machine and is giving these pictures to provide a place for the soldiers to go, as well as enjoyment for all the people of the surrounding country. The orchestra provides music during the entertainment.

The progressive euchre held in the Grange Hall on Thanksgiving night was a success. Premium ribbons were won as follows: First, Mrs.

Etta Osterhoudt, Davis Van Demark; second, Mrs. Fred Hansen, Jesse K. Hornbeck. The receipts for the Red Cross Society was $27 clear.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hansen of New York city have been spending some time with Mrs. Hansen's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Davis Van Demark.

Dr. Sherman's house is progressing rapidly. He expects to move in it by Christmas.

Regular dance and basketball game in the Grange Hall on Friday evening, December 7. Basketball game called for 8:15; Y. M. C. A. of Kingston against the Stone Ridge team. Steve Miller will furnish music for dancing. Refreshments for sale as usual.

MODENA.

Modena, Dec. 6.—Mr. and Mrs. Harry Cole and son, Donald, and Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Cole and son, Richard, of Newark, N. J., spent their Thanksgiving vacation with their father, Richard Cole.

Charles Freer was a visitor in Newburgh on Tuesday.

Alfred Fowler returned to his home in Newburgh on Tuesday, after spending some time with his grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. William Hoffman.

Mrs. Frank Coy and children of Poughkeepsie spent the week end with her mother, Mrs. A. K. Smith.

Charles Halstead and Miss Ruth Fairbridge visited friends in Chester last week.

Mrs. Rulie Ward and Burton were shoppers in Poughkeepsie on Tuesday.

Mrs. Charles Williams died at her home on Wednesday night, after a long illness. She is survived by her husband and seven children, five girls and two boys, also two sisters, of New Jersey. Funeral services were held at the M. E. Church on Saturday at 2 p. m. Interment in the rural cemetery of this place.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Leight and son were visitors in Poughkeepsie one day last week.

Miss Ethel DeBois of New Paltz spent the week end at her home here. Mrs. Walter Sickler spent Tuesday in Clintondale.

Second Star Sermon.

The second of the star series of sermons will be preached in the Clinton Avenue M. E. Church Sunday evening at 7:30 o'clock by the pastor, Rev. George M. Cranston. The theme for Sunday next will be "The Morning Star." The first of this series was attended last Sunday evening by a large and appreciative audience and it is hoped that those interested will attend all of these instructive sermons one to be preached each Sunday evening this month. The subject for each sermon will be announced each week previous on a large star erected in front of the church on Clinton avenue. At night this star will be radiantly illuminated with electric lights.

Paltz Man In Auto Crash.

Mrs. Susan Urban, 70 years old, of Roscoe, Sullivan county, sustained severe injuries, and the Ford car in which she was riding was badly damaged when it was struck by a Paige touring car about a mile from Wurtsboro on the Monticello road Wednesday afternoon. The Ford car was driven by Fred Will, who gave his address as New Paltz.

WATER BOARD FINANCES GOOD

That the water board is in good financial shape was shown Thursday afternoon at the regular monthly meeting of that board when the report of Auditor Woodling was submitted. President Hauck presided at the session with Commissioners Roach, Harrison and Canfield present.

Mr. Abernethy, cashier of the board, announced that he would leave Monday for Fort Slocum if he could secure his release from the local exemption board. In case Mr. Abernethy does leave that day the board will likely hold a special session to appoint some one from the eligible list to fill the vacancy.

The board decided to place a charge of $1 a year on all hot water heaters for private garages. This is the regular heater rate for private houses.

Auditor Woodling's report was an elaborate one and was made up to October 31, of this year. The balance sheet was as follows:

Assets.
Plant account cost of water works	$939,375.65
Construction expenses, 1917	28,293.30
City treasurer account cash	22,417.47
Materials and supplies	5,123.98
Uncollected future service	756.37
Uncollected meter service	1,407.92
Consumers arrears	488.55
Contingent fund	100.00
Sundry equipment tools and fixtures	2,834.30
	$1,010,797.54

Liabilities.

City of Kingston bonds	$606,000.00
Surplus account invested in plant	356,090.07
Accrued interest on bonds	3,020.00
Unearned water rates collected in advance	11,283.64
Accounts payable Central Jewell Filter Company	3,733.13
Net earnings ten months	30,614.29
	$1,010,797.54

Considerable routine business was also transacted at the meeting which adjourned subject to call of the chair.

Class Officers Elected.

The graduating class of School No. 7 held its first meeting at the home of Miss Helen Heiser on December 5. FRACTURED SKULL

BY FALL IN BOAT

Stephen Szymczyk of 55 East Pierpont Street Died in Ambulance on Way to Kingston City Hospital on Thursday.

Stephen Szymczyk of No. 55 East Pierpont street died in the city ambulance while being conveyed to the Kingston City Hospital Thursday evening from a fractured skull sustained in a fall into the hold of a canal boat. He was 60 years old and was employed by Burns Brothers Ice Company.

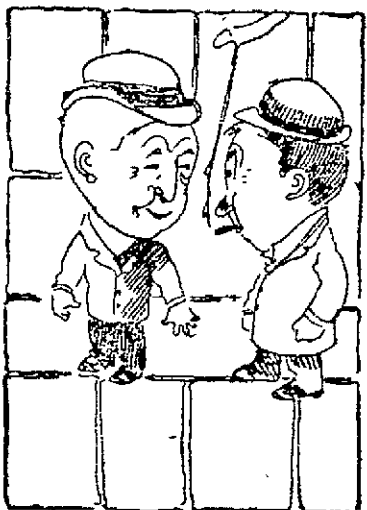

He with other employees were returning from up the river, where they had been at work loading an ice barge during the day. The little steamer in which they were being brought back home tied up alongside a canal boat moored in the Rondout creek near Watts & Tammany's coal yard. In order to reach shore they were obliged to cross over the hold of the canal boat on a plank and Szymczyk slipped and fell into the hold, striking on his head.

He was removed to Hahn's barbershop across the street and the city ambulance summoned. Dr. A. A. Stern, who was also called, did everything possible to aid the injured man, but he was beyond medical assistance.

Besides his wife he is survived by three sons, Peter, Joseph and Francis, and three daughters, Nellie and Josephine and Mrs. Walter Walczak. The funeral services will be held from his late residence Monday morning at 9 o'clock and from the Church of the Immaculate Conception on Delaware avenue at 9:30, with interment in Mt. Calvary Cemetery.

The name Szymczyk is pronounced as Simpson, and is so listed in the city directory.

THE REASON

"I don't see you with Miss Gonne as often as I used to."
"No. I'm married to her."

PORT EWEN.

Port Ewen, Dec. 7.—Hope Lodge, No. 66, K. of P. will meet this evening at 7:30 o'clock in their castle hall on Broadway.

Mrs. John Schultz of Esopus, spent Thursday with her sister, Mrs. J. A. Decker on Broadway.

Miss Ruth Shults of Broadway is improving at this writing.

Wallace Mable, who has been ill at his home on Broadway is better and able to resume his duties in the Express Office at Kingston.

The fair of the Ladies Aid Society of the Methodist Episcopal Church held at Pythian Hall Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, Dec. 4th and 5th, closed Wednesday evening. There was a large attendance at both entertainments and the uppers thoroughly enjoyed and well patronized. The whole affair was a social and financial success and the ladies are very thankful to all those who so willingly responded.

Miss Ella Rose of Albany is visiting her brother, Dr. G. W. Ross on Broadway.

Mulford Douglas of Kingston called on the people of this village Wednesday and sold several Scripture Text Calendars. This young man responded to the call to raise $10 and takes this novel way of earning it. It is to be regretted that some of our young men did not seize this golden opportunity and in this way show their willingness to do their bit in this time of urgent need.

NEW PALTZ.

New Palz, Dec. 7.—Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Hasbrouck are entertaining Mr. and Mrs. Bert Gardner of Leon, N. J., who are on their honeymoon. Among those who left for Florida recently are Mr. and Mrs. Andrew L. F. Deyo of Forest Glen, their son, Joseph and family, and Mr. Wright, Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Jansen of the Modena road, have just returned from a visit at Holyoke, Mass. They report a great deal of snow at various places.

The Red Cross of this village held its regular monthly meeting at their rooms at the Huguenot Bank on Monday afternoon. The Red Cross of Modena, with a membership of 18, and the Plattkill Branch of 23 members, have joined this auxiliary. The work is progressing finely, which is well as the demand for their work is increasing. The meetings are held each Monday and Thursday at the rooms.

The Red Cross are again in need of wood to heat the meeting rooms, and some generous citizen ought donate some for this worthy cause. Luther Hasbrouck was the only one who responded to the last appeal.

Elting Harp of this place and Louis Borden of New York city are hunting in North Carolina.

Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Deyo are in Virginia visiting friends.

Mrs. M. J. Gallagher of Newburgh is visiting her sister, Mrs. F. M. Van Syckle, of the Plain road.

Jens Peterson of the Modena road is building a hen house on his place.

WILTWYCK CHAPTER ANNUAL MEETING

Committees Named for the Coming Year and Reports of the Historian and Other Officers Received.

The annual meeting of Wiltwyck Chapter, D. A. R., was held at the chapter house on Thursday afternoon and was well attended. The afternoon was devoted to annual reports and a report from the recent state conference of the D. A. R., there being no additional program. Miss Baker, recording secretary, reported number of members enrolled, 180. Nine regular meetings had been held during the past year, with an average attendance of fifty members. Eight new members had been added to the chapter, and there had been nine deaths. Eight resignations, recorded, showed for the most part the forming of the new Daughters Chapter at Rhinebeck. Miss Louise Tremper, corresponding secretary, gave the report as to correspondence, etc. The treasurer's report was given by Mrs. Van Hovenberg, and Mrs. DeWitt Roosa reported on the Old Stone House Fund. The registrar's report was presented by Dr. Marcia Griswold, and Miss Basten told of the work of the resolutions committee.

The annual history of the chapter, always one of the most important features of the annual meeting, was given as follows by Mrs. Weed, historian:

D. A. R. Historian's Report.

Once again we have come to the closing of the official year of our chapter. As the dial of the old clock reveals to us the passing hours, we take no note of time but from its loss. As we grasp the hand of the departing year, 1917, with its message of bright and sad memories commingling, we look upon a year unparalleled in the history of our chapter. One by one the months have come and gone, and we have arrived at the parting of the ways.

The programs of the meetings during the year have been of unusual interest, many good suggestions will linger in our memories and will be helpful to us during the coming year. January 18 the regent, Mrs. Elting, entertained the chapter at the first social afternoon of the year. Dr. Sullivan, state historian, addressed the meeting, his subject, "The Importance of Preserving Public Records," was very interesting and highly instructive.

February 2nd it was decided to take up the work of making packets for the Serbian soldiers discharged from the hospitals. The chapter heartily co-operated with the Ulster County Red Cross Chapter in sending books, magazines and periodicals to our soldiers on the Mexican borders.

Lincoln's birthday and also the twenty-fifth birthday of the chapter was celebrated at the Chapter House February 12. The regent extended a birthday greeting to all present. Each member brought with her a sealed envelope containing as many names as possible of the D. A. R. in the chapter.

Lincoln's birthday and also the twenty-fifth birthday of the chapter was celebrated at the Chapter House February 12. The regent extended a birthday greeting to all present. Each member brought with her a sealed envelope containing as many names as possible of the D. A. R. in the chapter.

On January 5, Mrs. Cora R. Mitchell. On January 24, Mrs. Marie M. Lockwood. On January 30, Mrs. Mary Osterhout Dimmick. On February 17, Mrs. Carrie C. Francis.

On April 3, Mrs. Mary L. Parker. On May 19, Mrs. A. Elting Anderson. On August 8, Miss Petronella Bruyn Forsyth. On September 11, Mrs. Jessie G. Preston.

On November 11, Mrs. Martha LeFevre Schermerhorn. On hearts are saddened when we remember that in so many homes there will always be one vacant chair. We will miss their cheerful faces in our meetings and their loyal co-operation in our work.

Our gifts this year have been unusually large and not a few of great historic value. In the month of May, the daughter of Deborah Carter Williams, a descendant of Roger Williams, Mrs. Philip B. Collier, of our city, presented to Wiltwyck Chapter, a very old Bible, handed down to her from her great-grandmother. This Bible was printed in Edinburgh, in the year 1757. Also a letter written in 1811, by a soldier of the Continental Army, 4th Regiment, and a poem on "Roger Williams," presented to Mrs. Collier by F. H. Jackson, from the office of the lieutenant governor, state of Rhode Island, Providence Plantations.

In the month of June, one of the original American flags, with its thirteen stars, was presented to the chapter by Mrs. John Rodhead. This flag dated back to the Revolutionary period, and also rendered service in the Civil and Spanish Wars. At the same meeting, Mrs. A. T. Clearwater presented a very handsome new United States flag to the chapter. It was presented through Mrs. A. Elting Anderson, as coming from her. The presentation to the chapter was made by the regent, Mrs. Elting.

Mrs. Minnie Basten Squires presented the chapter with a piece of wood taken from the belfry of Old North Church, Boston, in which the man of the surgical dressings committee, making for the use of the entire Chapter House, for the Red Cross work. Mrs. Hasbrouck voiced the gratitude and appreciation of the Red Cross for this favor. It was announced that the Red Cross Chapter would hereafter pay the sum of $10 monthly for janitor's service at the Chapter House.

June.—A contribution of $5 was donated toward the American flag for the academy green. The June meeting, the last for the season, was the largest gathering of the members for the year. Mrs. Elting presided, and was the hostess for the afternoon. Mrs. Kenyon gave a report of the knitted articles being made and those sent to the Navy League. The invitation from Mrs. Vedder of Catskill, to visit her old historic home, was accepted. On June 14 a delegation of Daughters spent a most delightful day in this home, so full of historic memories and with a most genial hostess.

October.—October 4, the first fall meeting was held. Mrs. A. V. V. Kenyon, the second vice-regent, presided in the absence of the regent, Mrs. Elting. It was voted, in view of the present war conditions, that Chapter Day, October 16, should not be celebrated with a social function, but should on that day meet with the Red Cross workers, assisting in the surgical dressings work at the Chapter House. This was considered a more patriotic manner of observing the day. In July, the local comforts committee of the Navy League was formed with Mrs. Higginson as its chairman. It was thought best to transfer the D. A. R. committee to that organization. Mrs. Kenyon, chairman of the knitting committee, reported as follows: $144 including $25 contributed, especially, had been paid out for yarn for the knitting. The committee had received in completed articles 101 pair of wristlets, 118 sweaters, 126 scarves, 12 helmets. They had sent in April, to a submarine crew, 20 sets comprising each a sweater, scarf and wristlets; May, to a submarine crew, 20 sets sweater, scarf and wristlets; to the Ulster County Chapter of the Red Cross, 20 sets of sweater, scarf and wristlets; to crew of submarine chaser "75," built at Hitebrant's ship yard, 20 sets of sweater, scarf, wristlets and helmet.

November.—The November meeting was one of the largest of the year. As a new chapter had been organized at Rhinebeck, several of our members were transferred to that chapter and one member was transferred to the Manhattan Chapter.

At this meeting names of 25 sailors were taken by the members, together with their addresses, each member expecting to correspond with such sailor and to send two papers a week to the same, also magazines and periodicals.

The speaker for the afternoon was Mrs. Edith Elting Pattou, whose strong personality and pleasing address as she presented her subject, "The French Women in Relation to the War," in such realistic manner, was such that she held her large audience in full sympathy with her self and her subject.

Never before in the history of Wiltwyck Chapter have we been called upon to pay such a heavy toll to death in memberships as during the past year. Nine of our members have been called to the better country from which no traveler ever returns.

On January 5, Mrs. Cora R. Mitchell. On January 24, Mrs. Marie M. Lockwood. On January 30, Mrs. Mary Osterhout Dimmick. On February 17, Mrs. Carrie C. Francis.

Waterproofing Concrete.

To stop leakage through concrete, such as tunnel walls, clean the walls thoroughly and paint with a solution consisting of eight and three-quarter pounds of zinc sulphate dissolved in a gallon of water. The zinc sulphate will act on the lime in the cement, forming insoluble calcium sulphate and zinc hydroxide, which fill up the pores in the concrete.

The Busy Gaza.

In almost every particular the modern Gaza is an Egyptian rather than a Syrian town. It is full of rich vegetation, and its many glistening minarets show up against the dull green of immemorial olive trees. Gaza is still as of old, a place of trade of camels and caravans, and its bazars are loud with traffic and filled with merchandise.

DETERMINING AGE OF MAN

How Scientist Has Fixed Glacial Period in Sweden.

Prof. Gerald de Geer, a Scandinavian man of science, has for many years been studying the sands deposited by the glaciers in the Yoldia sea in Sweden. These lie in layers of alternately fine and coarse sand. It seems certain that the fine sand is deposited by the slow flow of water and that the coarse layers are due to the summer flow when the streams are swollen by the thawing of the glaciers.

By counting these layers and studying their thickness, Professor de Geer has come to the conclusion that southern Sweden was first clear of glacial ice about 2,000 years ago.

This calculation coincides roughly with that derived from his study of the Niagara gorge by G. W. Wright and with that of Sollas, who holds that the last glacial epoch ended not more than 7,000 years ago. Sir Bertram Windle says that "with such difference of opinion existing among the doctors" plain men should remember that any statements about ancient specimens of man being "hundreds of thousands of years old," perhaps even millions, are based on pure imagination and have no real foundation of any kind.

Why Man Should Be Well Dressed.

Ill-fitting clothes detract ten per cent from a man's efficiency, according to Dr. George Van Ness Dearborn, professor of psychology at Harvard, who addressed a national gathering of clothing manufacturers and store owners. "One can hardly estimate the benefits of being well-dressed and properly fitted," Doctor Dearborn said. "The well-dressed man spells success and inspires confidence. First impressions are most important, and many a man has got a place largely on account of the cut of his clothes. It goes without saying that the rich man should buy the best and attire himself with taste, but it even pays the poorer man to do the same, for an air of prosperity is contagious. Finally, well-fitting clothes add to one's self-respect, incite personal cleanliness and aid the man in business."

Good Stock, Good Prices.

The Argentine cattlemen pay prices for blooded live stock that only a few fanciers in America would consider. Bulls not infrequently sell for $20,000 or $30,000, canny farmers offering such sums without arousing any sensation. So well does blooded stock pay that amounts of this sort are not looked upon as speculation.

He Was a Boy.

Little George was getting ready for school one day when it was just about to rain. He was told to take his umbrella with him. He didn't like the idea, and after awhile replied, "Not for mine; that's too womanish."

NO POOR KIDDIES IN OSKALOOSA. SO WALTZ KING GOES TO NEW YORK.

Oskaloosa, Iowa, Dec. 7.—Frederick Knight Logan, the "waltz king" of America, and composer of the Missouri Waltz, the melody of which has brought him $50,000, has been unable to find any real poor kiddies in his home town here.

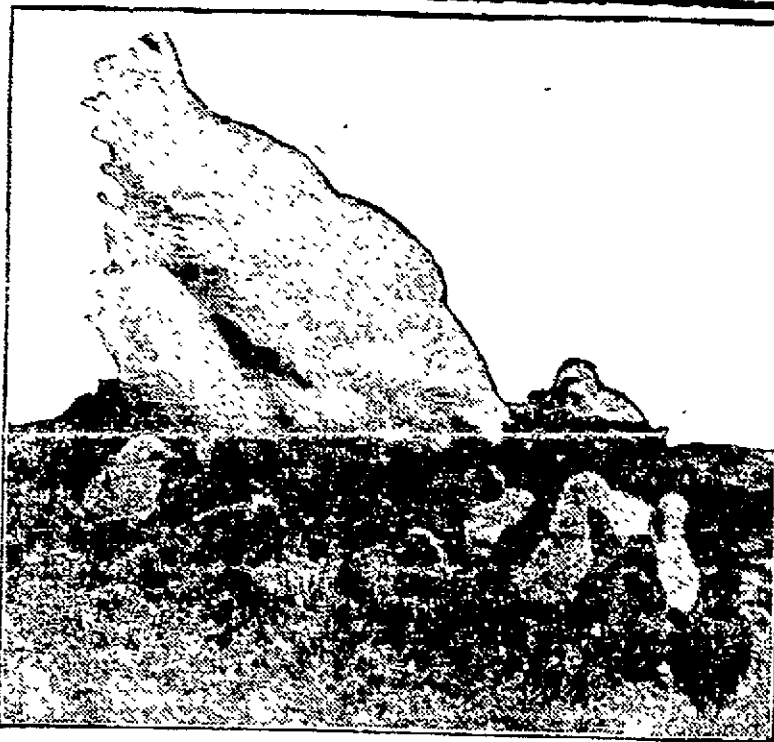

He is therefore going to New York in the garb of Santa Claus to play the role of the merry friend to the kiddies.

Through the kindly offices of the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor he has been given a list of the very poorest kiddies in the metropolis.

Those kiddies will be his guest on Christmas Day at the Majestic Hotel, New York, at a party, the like of which they have never dreamed.

Each of the youngsters will be given a complete wardrobe of clothing, plenty of toys, a dinner such as only the chef of the Majestic can plan, and a Christmas dinner basket for the folks at home.

Mr. Logan will be accompanied by his mother on his trip east.

MANNER OF BROODING CHICKS WITH HENTHRIFTY BROOD OF FUTURE PROFIT MAKERS.

By J. G. HALPIN and J. B. HAYES, Wisconsin Agricultural Experiment Station

It is frequently advisable to give incubator chicks to broody hens. Many farmers find it practical to hatch a large proportion of their chicks in incubators and brood them all with hens. Others buy chicks from a central hatching station and take them home and rear them with hens. It is often advisable to brood some of the later chicks with hens. The hens are no longer needed to produce hatching eggs and the rest while brooding chicks is beneficial. Each of the broody hens are given two chicks just at dark. Early the next morning the hens that seem to be the best for this purpose should be given from 12 to 30 chicks according to the time of year and the disposition of the hen.

There are many different kinds and types of brooders on the market. They vary in size from small individual brooders, capable of caring for 50 or 60 chicks, to large brooder-house systems that will care for several thousand chicks. Each type is adapted to special conditions.

In hot weather it is necessary to have shade so that the little chicks will not be sunburned. If possible, place the coops near some low-growing shrubbery. This affords the chicks an excellent shelter from hawks, but exposes them to attacks from cats and some other enemies that will have to be watched.

As soon as the chicks are ten days of age, if convenient, turn the mother hen loose toward night and allow her to run with the brood. If the hen does no damage she can be given her liberty throughout the day after the chicks become accustomed to following her. The hen should never be turned loose for the first time in the morning. On most farms it will be found practical to move the hen and chicks into a field where they can find a large part of their living. On many farms where trouble from intestinal parasites is found, if the chicks are started in the field on clean ground they grow splendidly.

The length of time that a hen will brood her flock depends largely on the disposition of the hen. Some hens will begin to lay after the chicks are about three weeks old, but still hover them at night, while others insist on weaning the chicks. Care should be taken that the chicks do not desert some of the houses and all crowd together at weaning time. This is often the case where several hens leave their broods at about the same time. The chicks wander from house to house looking for the accustomed warmth of the hen and finally a large number settle down in one house. Where this occurs, they must be either changed back into small lots or moved into a larger house.

As the chicks grow, they often begin to show a desire to roost in the trees. This is often better than roosting in houses as all danger of crowding and rattles are avoided. This method, however, exposes the chicks to thieves although there is not as much danger of their being stolen from the trees as from some houses. Where there is considerable danger from thieves, it pays to use portable colony houses that can be locked. The experiment station has been successful in putting from four to six hens and their broods in a colony house 6-by-6 or 8-by-8 feet and allowing them to run with their broods from the start. The success of this plan depends upon having good-natured hens that do not fight.

FEEDING BABY CHICKS

First Few Days Is Most Critical Period of Its Life.

Important to Provide Best Brooding Conditions Possible Following Removal of Chick From Incubator or the Nest.

The first few days after a chick gets out of the shell is one of the most critical periods of its life. It must rapidly adjust itself to radically changed conditions. In the first place it changes from the nourishment of the white of the egg to the nourishment furnished by the yolk. This change takes place just before the chick leaves the shell.

Then, in from 36 to 48 hours the chick must adjust itself to the food that is given it and to taking it into its body through the mouth.

The conditions of temperature are very different and much more variable than those that existed inside the shell while the egg was in the incubator and it is a severe strain upon the system of the baby chick to adapt itself to the rapidly and widely varying conditions.

All of which emphasizes the importance of providing the best brooding conditions possible during the period immediately following the removal of chicks from an incubator or the nest in which they were hatched. To allow a hen to trail her chick through wet grass or weeds is tantamount to fate and if they do not die the good fortune can more properly be attributed to luck than to judgment and management.

The more nearly the changes in temperature and moisture surrounding the chicks can be reduced to a minimum, the less the strain upon their systems and the larger the percentage that will safely pass through the critical period.

Some users of incubators attempt to brood their chicks with hens, but the method is often unsatisfactory especially in the case of early hatched chicks, owing to the fact that there is not a sufficient number of broody hens. For a full measure of success with incubator-hatched chicks, it is necessary to provide for some means of artificial brooding. The number of fowls raised and not the number of chicks hatched determines the profit from the venture and it does not pay to take chances at the most critical period in the life of chicks.

Conscience.

A very strong feeling makes it sell a conscience of its own—her own pity; just as much as the feeling of the son towards the mother, which will sometimes survive amid the worst times of depravity.—Exchange.

Wasting Her Time.

"What do you think of a man who would spend his evening with his arm around the back of a girl's chair?" "Looks like wasting the girl's time. I'd let him spend the evening with the chair."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Feminine Nature.

Feminine nature, fortunately, remains about the same from generation to generation and, while we have no reliable statistics at hand at the moment, we do not believe that the higher education of women has resulted in any appreciable diminution to the world's supply of giggling.—Ohio State Journal.

Childish Deductions.

Mary and her little brother, Billie, were standing in the parlor of a big hotel. Much awed at their luxurious surroundings, they were gazing about, when Billie's glance fell on a picture of Marie Antoinette. Flung up to Mary, he whispered: "Who's that lady?" To which Mary replied in a confidential tone: "Well, she's the one that owns the furniture."

SURVIVORS TELL OF HALIFAX DISASTER

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

Bangor, Me., Dec. 7.—Two Boston girls, Miss Katherine White and Miss Dorothy Mackenzie, who have been attending Mount St. Vincent's Academy, a Catholic school in Rockingham, a suburb of Halifax, were the first survivors to reach Bangor from the stricken Nova Scotia city.

"We thought it was an air raid at first," they said today. "About three minutes before the main explosion the earth trembled as in an earthquake. After a period of waiting and wondering, we heard a terrific explosion. Every window in the building was demolished."

Miss White was cut by a piece of falling glass and had a large piece of adhesive plaster over her right eye to protect the wound.

"We girls were rushed at once to an open field as they feared more explosions. We stayed there for a few hours and then, nothing happening, we were taken back to the convent, which we found had been converted into a hospital. People were dragged there in a dying condition and many died during the day. We girls assisted the wounded as best we could."

"In the city of Halifax, children in an orphan's home were burned alive when their home was demolished."

Major McKay For Police Chief.

The New York Sun this morning stated that according to information it had received that Major Douglas L. McKay, who was police commissioner under Mayor Mitchell during the first five months of his administration, and before that a deputy commissioner, is the first choice of Mayor-elect Hylan for the post of the police department of New York city. Major McKay is well known in this city where he resided for some time when he had charge of the aqueduct police in this section for New York city.

Saugerties Bowlers Won.

The Roundout Bowling Club journeyed to Saugerties Thursday evening where they were defeated by the Saugerties Bowling Club by a margin of 14 pins. The game was bowled on Ziegler's bowling alleys. Captain Max Ebel of the Roundout Bowling Club and Captain McCormack of the Saugerties Bowling Club were the star bowlers. After the game a delicious chicken supper was served in the Ziegler grill. A return match is expected on Wednesday evening, December 12, at the Elks Club bowling alleys.

Who Will Be City Marshal?

It is understood that Miss Jeanette V. Costello, present city court stenographer, is to be reappointed by Harry Schirck, judge-elect of the city court, and rumor is rife as to who he will appoint as city marshal. There are a number of worthy Democrats who would like the job, it is said.

An Acre.

An acre originally meant in both Latin and Anglo-Saxon a field of any size. As a measure of land it was first defined under Edward I of England as the amount that a yoke of oxen could plow in a day. It was under the reign of George IV, that a uniform standard was given to this name.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL

By Telegraph to The Freeman
New York, Dec. 7.—Stocks were under pressure at the opening of the stock market today, and first prices showed declines of from fractions to over one point. Steel Common declined one point to 36½ and Bethlehem Steel B sold off to 73. Republic declined ½ to 74½. Delaware and Hudson sold off 1½ to 94½, while fractional declines were suffered in Reading, Canadian Pacific and Union Pacific. General Electric declined 2½ points. United Cigar Stores was ¼ lower at 85½. Marine Preferred declined ¾ to 90½, and American Can sold down to 35½. The copper were weak, Utah declining ½ to 77½, and Inspiration was ¾ lower at 41½. Shortly after the opening U. S. Steel sold down to a new low record for the year of 86½. American Telephone continued under pressure, yielding 1½ to 102½, the lowest price touched in a long period.

During the remainder of the forenoon a better tone prevailed and the list in general moved higher. Corn Products was exceptionally active, gaining one point to 29½. Steel Common after selling down to 36½ moved up to above 87 and Bethlehem Steel B after yielding to 72½, rallied to 73½. Reading rallied to 69½. American Telephone sold down 1½ to 102½ and Western Union fell 2 points to 77½. Money loaning at 2½ per cent.

The market was stronger in the afternoon. Steel Common moved up 1½ to 87½, and Bethlehem Steel B advanced nearly 2 points to 74½. General Motors moved up from 55½ to 58. Union Pacific advanced to 111½, and Reading to 69. Stocks closed today slightly below the high prices of the day. U. S. Steel Common sold down one point to 86½ and Bethlehem Steel B declined from 74½ to 73½. Reading fell one to 68½ and Utah, after dropping one point to 76½, closed at 77.

BIG LEAGUE CLUBS AIM TO RETRENCH

Training Operations to Be Conducted on Very Modest Scale.

From present indications spring training operations of the 16 major league ball clubs will be conducted on a very modest scale in 1918.

The heavy expense of taking a big squad of ball players to the sunny Southland has caused talk of curtailments along this line for several years, but because of the hard knocks baseball has taken in a financial way and the uncertainties of what the future holds for the game owing to the world war, there is little chance that the club owners will be ready to spend money lavishly next spring.

A forerunner of the retrenchment policies of major league owners was found in the draft last September, when the major league clubs drafted fewer players than for the past ten years. The Chicago White Sox, for instance, did not draft a single player. Several other clubs drafted only one or two men, and before spring training time arrives next March there is a chance that some of the drafted players will be turned back.

The annual report of the national commission, showing the players purchased from the minor leagues by major league clubs between the dates of the 1916 and 1917 drafts, showed a total of 127 players who were taken by the big leagues under approved agreements, other than optional contracts. In this list the Boston Red Sox did not obtain a single player by the purchase route, while the Boston Braves got but one. The drafted players totaled 33, 12 of whom were drafted by American league clubs and 21 by clubs in the National league.

In all the major leagues secured a total of 160 players, including both those purchased for trial and those drafted. Of this number it is said that not more than 50 per cent will be taken South next spring.

FEEDING AND HOUSING WINTER LAYERS

OPEN-FRONT HOUSE FOR POULTRY FLOCK

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Winter eggs do not come to the careless poultryman. The best methods of feeding, housing, and handling are necessary to stimulate egg production during the cold months. The greatest egg production during the fall and winter is possible only with well-matured pullets which were hatched in March and April, as late hatched pullets usually will not lay during the fall and early winter, while older hens are molting at that time and lay few if any eggs.

If the poultryman has good stock, the methods of feeding and housing described below will produce good results.

Kind of Feed.

Good scratch mixtures may be made of equal parts, by weight, of cracked corn, wheat, and oats, or of two parts of cracked corn and one part each of wheat and oats. If wheat is relatively high in price it may be left out of this latter mixture, and the proportion of feed scrap increased one-fourth in the mash. In addition a mash made of three parts cornmeal and one part each of wheat bran, wheat middlings, and beef scrap should be fed. Green feed, such as cabbage, mangel-wurzel, beets, cut alfalfa, or sprouted oats should be fed during the winter to replace the green feed which the fowls have been securing in the fields; and beef scrap, skim milk, cut green bone, or some similar feed is needed to replace the insects which the fowls have been securing on the range.

Methods of Feeding.

Feed the grain in a deep litter on the floor and thus make the hens exercise to get it. The mash may be fed either wet or dry, and should be so regulated that the fowls will get about equal parts of mash and of the scratch grains. It is necessary to give the fowls plenty to eat to get good results, but the birds should always be eager for each feed. In cold weather feed about one-third of the scratch grains in the morning and two-thirds at night, in which way the hens are forced to exercise more than if given all the grain they desired at the morning feed. Scratch grains, mash or ground grains, meat meal, green feed, grit, and shell, should be supplied in the winter.

Importance of Beef Scrap.

Beef scrap or feed of this nature is very essential in securing a good supply of eggs during the winter months, and is the one essential feed often omitted. Skin milk or buttermilk will partly take the place of beef scrap if a constant supply can be kept before the fowls, but some beef scrap should also be fed. Waste products from the table and kitchen can be used. As these scraps contain some waste meat, the proportion of beef scrap in the mash can be reduced accordingly. These table scraps can be mixed with the ground grains and fed as a moist mash.

Method of Housing.

To obtain good results from a flock of poultry during the winter, all houses and coops should be in good condition, only healthy fowls placed in them, and good care given to the poultry. Houses should be thoroughly cleaned, disinfected, and made tight. If they have earth floors, it is well to remove the top three or four inches of earth and replace this with dry gravel or sand. If they have cement or wooden floors, remove all litter and dirt and put in four or five inches of fresh straw litter. Be sure that the houses are tight on three sides and that there is no chance for a draft to strike the hens. If hens roost or are

C. S. WOOD

It Paid to Wait

"Well, I should like to get a chance to say a word myself just for a minute," exclaimed the Widow Sprague, as she hung up the receiver. "I've been trying, off and on, for the last two hours."

"Yes, it is exasperating," said Mrs. Mellen, a visitor who had come over from the city the morning after Thanksgiving. "We've had ours changed to a one-party line."

"For the land's sake! What for?" "Why, it was a nuisance the way people would hold the line—just for people who can't wait much more than was no privacy. It isn't pleasant to feel that some outsider may be listening when you are at the telephone."

"Well, I'm afraid single party lines wouldn't be popular in this neighborhood," declared Mrs. Sprague. "None of us expect privacy, or want it, for that matter. There's gossip, of course, but with everybody listening it isn't likely to be the kind that does harm; and if you can't always get the line just when you want it, you can say to yourself, 'Patient waiters, no losers, and let it go at that. It's Mrs. Parks that has it now; she's talking to her brother's wife, but I guess she must be about through by now. I've got to call John Murray before noon to let him know whether I'll buy his cow or not. He asks too much, but I can't seem to do better."

"That's the Burroughs boy," she said a moment later as she again hung up the receiver. He missed his dinner yesterday by going off hunting in the forenoon and getting lost in the woods. But he shot two rabbits and he wants it generally known. This is the third time I've heard about it."

"I thought I had it then," the old lady whispered as she stood at the telephone, "but Lyddy Perkins has got in ahead of me. She's called up Miss Pratt at the center. Lyddy is to sing at the grange meeting tonight, and Miss Pratt, who is in the Baptist choir, is helping her on her song. I've heard Lyddy singing it for her over the phone every day for the past week. Miss Pratt says she still flits in one or two places, so I might as well allow them time to go over it once or twice more."

"I might have known it!" said Mrs. Sprague, laughing, after her next attempt. "You have heard me speak of old Uncle Ephraim Hoyt and his wife, who live just beyond the schoolhouse. His nephew, Walter, came to see them last summer. He is good-hearted and has means, but he's always doing queer, absent-minded things. He found the old folks were pretty lonesome and I supposed it occurred to him that a telephone would be kind of company."

"He said nothing to anybody, but after he went away he sent and had one put in for them at his own expense. But what made the whole neighborhood laugh was that Walter had seemed to forget that the old couple were, both of 'em, deaf as haddocks! We needn't have laughed, for it turned out that Uncle Ephraim, deaf as he is, could hear tolerable well over the telephone. Aunt Judith can't hear a bit with it, but she can use Uncle Ephraim, and I guess she gets as much satisfaction out of it as anybody. It's kind of comical to hear him getting information and shouting it into her ears."

"I know what he's learning the particulars of now. It's the mess they got into at the Spicers' yesterday."

"They had a lot of company for Thanksgiving, and I expect their table was a handsome sight, with 15 people all rigged out in their best, seated round it. No wonder George Potto wanted to take a picture! He had brought his flashlight machine, and they darkened the room just before they all sat down. George wanted to be in the picture himself, so he had rigged a long tube onto the camera's bulb and a string that he could pull from his seat at the table, to work the flashlight powder."

"But instead of exploding the flash, as he expected, George somehow tipped open the bag that held the powder, and it spilled all over the table and everything on it! Jenny said the turkey looked like a big marshmallow, and even the cranberry sauce was all powdered white. They didn't dare eat a bite of all those good victuals, and finally Mrs. Splaney had to clear everything off and bring on what was left of Wednesday's boiled dinner."

"Now I guess I'll step to the telephone and see how far Uncle Ephraim has got into that story."

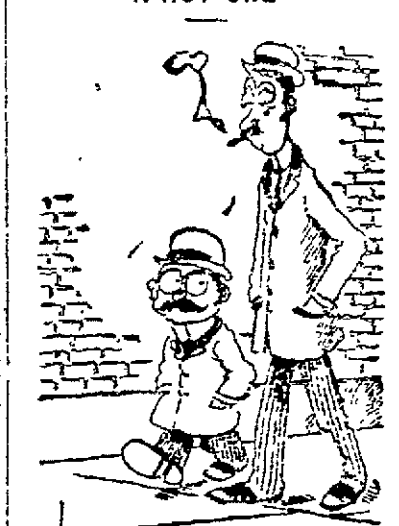

"There," said Mrs. Sprague, after a reasonable interval, "I guess that must be over, and maybe it's my chance now."

But just then her own call sounded, and for some minutes she was engaged in conversation, apparently of a business nature.

"That was Thomas Parks," she explained as she turned away from the telephone. "He's changed his mind, and says I can have the cow that I tried to buy a month ago. She's a better cow than John Murray's, and I can have her for $80 instead of $70. So it is just as well I didn't call up John. 'Patient waiters, no losers!' Here I've made $10 by just biding my time, and letting others have the good of the line!"

PLENTY OF GASOLINE IF RIGHTLY USED

MODERN WAR HORSE USED BY U. S. ARMY.

1—Do not allow your gasoline engine to run idle.
2—Use kerosene, not gasoline, for cleaning purposes in the garage.
3—See to it that the carburetor does not leak from the habit of shutting off the gasoline at the tank.

Coincident with the expansion of the army's program for the use of airplanes, trucks, and so on, Van H. Manning, director of the bureau of mines of the department of the interior, has issued the above suggestions to motorists, which in view of action taken by foreign countries toward motorizing, and the possibility of the gasoline shortage in this country, may well be headed by those in the United States. It is estimated that the United States army will need 350,000,000 gallons of gasoline for airplanes, trucks, tractors, and other machines. To obtain a part at least of this amount it has been suggested that the man who rides for pleasure should cut down his mileage, since half the gasoline used in this country, 1,250,000,000 gallons, is used in pleasure riding. By economical use enough gasoline can be saved to supply not only the United States but its allies for war purposes.

Motor car owners are not advised to lay up their cars but to use them either for trade or pleasure purposes thoughtfully and judiciously. If this advice is followed, there will be no undue scarcity, says Mr. Manning, for the United States possesses an abundant supply for ordinary purposes.

Health Endangered By High Heels

By DR. SAMUEL G. DIXON
Commissioner of Health of Pennsylvania

The present extremely high heels worn by the majority of American women, both old and young, mean deformity of the feet. X-ray pictures indicating the relation of the toes to the ground when they are encased in these high-heeled shoes, show that women are walking on the ends of their five toes. There is food for thought in the fact that the horse nowadays walks on a foot consisting of one toe, while in the more primitive animal there were three or five toes.

The shape of the natural foot of man has a great variety of uses and it is one of the things that has helped to place him first in the life of the earth. The natural foot has been one of the anatomical facts that has helped him to his present high state of efficiency. The form of that foot has enabled him to become, a good hunter, a good farmer, a good sailor, a good soldier—in fact, anything he has found it necessary through the ages to become, or finds now essential for the war we are fighting to continue our personal liberty.

Let the butterfly girls and the other high-heeled old and young women stop and realize the value of the normal foot of man. Let them cut off the high heel and substitute the natural level. This might also work out to the interest of direct economy by using the surplus heel to make thicker soles on the shoes.

Let us recognize the models of nature which have led us to success. If man's foot had been abused for an indefinite time in a way to have reduced it to a one-toed foot, resembling the horse's, he would have a hard time trying to fulfill his present duties in life.

The high heel represents the fashion for the women of today and means a great discounting of the value of mankind, particularly if it is continued a long time. The present high heel is not only torturous but of great injury to the health. The mother must remember that she is partly responsible for the feet of her children and that if she wants them to have normal, strong feet she must keep them naturally shod.

Good Things for the Family.
For a make-believe apple pie to serve in a hurry, the following will be a success: Cut a few well-flavored, tart apples, put into a deep granite pie plate, season with sugar, butter, cinnamon, nutmeg or in any way to suit the taste of the family. Over the top place slices of buttered bread, set into the oven and bake until the apple sauce is bubbled and softened the cream. Serve with cream and sugar. Such a pie will be found harmless for the children's dessert. It is also a good way to use left-over slices of bread. However, we are not supposed to have left-over slices of bread these days, as the old custom which was common in grandmother's day is being revived, that of cutting the loaf as the bread is needed on the table. A very economical way of avoiding left-overs.

Prune Ice Cream.
Cover a cupful of prunes with cold water, and let them stand over night. In the morning cook in the same water until soft, remove the stones and put the fruit through a strainer. Add a cupful of sugar, four tablespoonsful of lemon juice, a pinch of salt and one and a fourth cupfuls of heavy cream, whipped. Freeze.

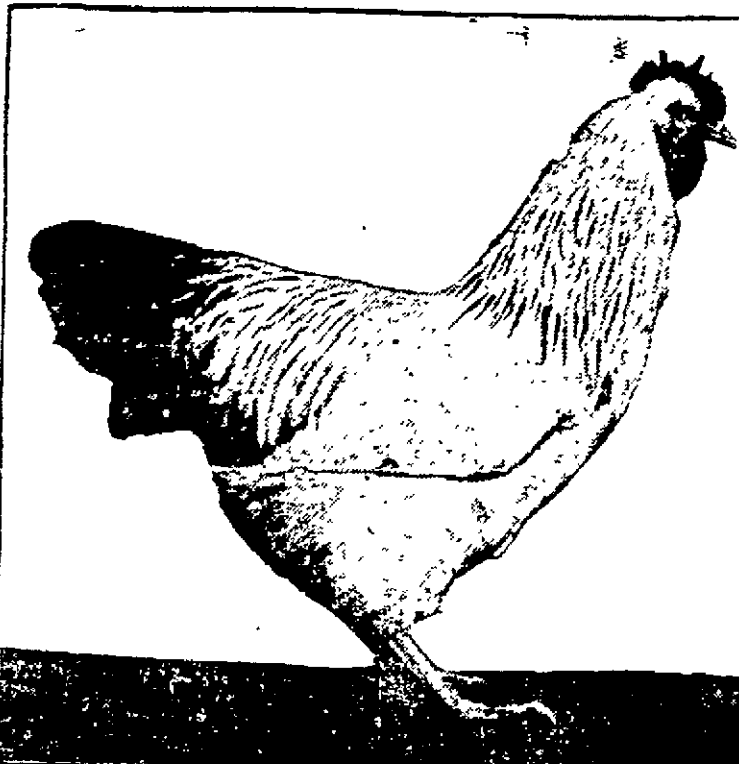

New England Thanksgiving Pudding.
Roll crackers to measure a cupful and a fourth. Pour over them a quart of scalded milk and let stand until cool; then add one cupful of sugar, four eggs, lightly beaten, one-third of a cupful of melted butter, a teaspoonful of salt and one-half a grated nutmeg. Cook a cupful and a half of raisins in just enough fruit juice to cover, or boiling water may be used. Remove when soft and plump. Mix all together and turn into a deep buttered pan. Set the pan in another containing water and bake in a slow oven three hours. Stir after the first half hour to prevent the raisins from settling. Turn on a serving dish and garnish with lemon slices or cubes of jelly, serve with hard sauce.

Beans Without Pork.
Now that pork of all kinds is so expensive try baking beans with olive oil or the still cheaper corn oil, called Mazola. To a pint of beans parboiled, add three tablespoonsful of the oil, a teaspoonful each of salt and mustard, an onion dropped in whole and buried in the beans, and two tablespoonfuls of molasses. Add boiling water and bake as usual, at least half a day.

Baked Pears.
Put pears, unpeeled but cored, into a baking pan, and sugar, butter, lemon juice or vinegar and baste while baking. Bake in an earthen dish in a slow oven for several hours. The syrup to serve with the pears will be rich and brown by the long cooking.

RATIONS GIVEN TO HASTEN NEW FEATHERS

PRIZE WINNING COLUMBIAN PLYMOUTH ROCK COCK.

Hens must finish molting before cold weather starts or they will lay in the winter months. Because of this fact a special combination of feed should be given to hasten the growth of the new feathers, according to Ross M. Sherwood of the department of poultry husbandry in the Kansas State Agricultural college.

Use Linseed Oil Meal.
"Sour milk and beef scraps are useful at all seasons," says Mr. Sherwood, "but linseed oil meal is especially good at this time." There are certain food materials in oil meal which are needed in feather building and which are not found in the other feeds mentioned. Practical feeders often point out that oil meal loosens the old feathers. This may be the result of the rapid growth of new feathers caused by food materials contained in the oil meal.

Ration for Molting Season.
The following ration is recommended for the molting season: 60 pounds of corn chop, 60 pounds of wheat bran, 20 pounds of meat scraps, and 15 pounds of old process oil meal. This is fed in combination with a scratching feed made up of two or more of the cheapest grains locally. After the fowls have completed the molt and are well feathered, this mash may be given: 60 pounds of corn chop, 60 pounds of wheat bran, 30 pounds of wheat shorts, and 20 pounds of meat scraps.

FOWLS IN WINTER

Make Profit From Flock During Extremely Cold Weather.

PREPARE FOR HENS' COMFORT

All Immature Pullets Should Be Separated and Forced for Development or Fattening—Make General Cleaning Up.

The showing that the hens make during the severity of winter, is a good index of the person handling them. Spring is the natural laying season. Nature usually lends aid for the hatching and rearing of chicks from March until October, but winter and late fall finds the hen entirely dependent upon man. As far as the profit she will pay is concerned. The careful farmer or poultryman makes a profit from the flock during the cold weather and prepares the way from the time the eggs are selected in the spring until the snow begins to fly by selecting eggs from best winter layers, keeping as winter producers only well developed pullets and healthy, energetic young hens by preparing for their comfort in the fall before the rigors of winter set in. Granted that one has these well matured pullets or hens that are young enough to be profitable if held over for another year, the problem of winter eggs is not so difficult. No producer on the farm responds more readily to good care than the hen and the cow.

Begin Culling Now.
In order to get into winter quarters with the best possible prospect, culling should begin now. All immature pullets should be placed to themselves and forced for development or fattening for market and all extremely old hens had best be prepared for the pot. Cockerels intended for next season's breeders should be separated from the others and a general clean up made of all surplus stock. It is possible that it will be more profitable to hold some or all of the surplus for a better market but they should at least be separated from the winter flock and the latter placed in permanent quarters early.

It is remarkable how well a little flock of 50 or 100 hens and pullets will pay if well attended. The housing need not be elaborate or expensive. The feed is all at hand on the average grain farm and no one need worry about protein or ash or balanced rations. Give the hen something to balance and she will do the work for herself.

Make Needed Repairs.
If your house is in need of repair, begin now in your spare time to repair it. Patch the roof if it leaks. There are usually enough odds and ends around the farm to fix it. If it has wide cracks between the boards of the wall, set fender around three sides of it, leave a part of the south or east side open and make a frame covered with cheese cloth or some other light material for extremely cold and stormy days. Fill in a dirt floor four or five inches higher than the surrounding yard. Clean out the old nest boxes and spray the wall and perches. You will have made a nice start toward winter eggs when these things are accomplished.

WHAT KILLS FARM CHICKENS

Character of Animal May Be Pretty Well Determined by Condition of Fowl When Found.

We may pretty well determine the character of the animal that visited our hen house by the condition of the fowls as found.

A mink will slaughter a dozen or more birds in a night, biting them in the neck and sucking the blood. Both the mink and the opossum leave the carcasses in the coop or house where they found them.

Rats drag their prey into the holes or runways. Rats, however, very seldom attack a half-grown chicken or a fowl. Their appetite is more for the youngsters, so the front of each coop should be closed with a wire-covered frame, which keeps out the rats and permits ventilation.

Cats and foxes carry their victims away with them; the cat, like the rat, carries only for the baby chicks, seldom doing damage to birds that weigh more than a pound.

The skunk seems to select poultry for his diet only as a last resort. He prefers ferret meat or scrap. If any of the latter is found he will fill up with it and then retire to his den. The next night he will return, and in case the refuse meat or scrap is insufficient to satisfy his appetite, he will top off on poultry.

The weasel crawls on the roost, selects his victim, taps a vein and sucks the blood. The weasel is a regular contortionist, and is able to so contract his body that he can wedge through the smallest opening.

EGGS PURCHASED BY WEIGHT

Custom Is Growing and Seems to Be Only Fair Way—Light Brahmas Lay Largest Eggs.

The consumer of eggs knows that there is considerable difference in size of eggs. As a general rule a dozen eggs may mean very little as to the amount of food contained.

The custom of buying eggs by weight rather than by the dozen is growing. Really this is the only fair way to sell or buy.

There is considerable variation in the size and weight of eggs. This variation is more among individuals than among breeds, yet there is a relative standard for the breeds. Light Brahmas lay the largest eggs, the relative average being 28 ounces per dozen. Eggs of Black Langshans and Barred Plymouth Rock hens weigh a little over 28 ounces per dozen. The weight of eggs laid by Single Comb Brown Leghorns, late-hatched Plymouth Rocks, White Wyandottes and Buff Cochins ranges from 21.7 to 24.7 ounces per dozen. The eggs of Peking ducks are heavier than those laid by hens, the weight of duck eggs being 35.6 ounces per dozen.

DETERMINE PROFIT ON DUCKS

An Experiment Found That Fowls Twelve Weeks Old Required 3.18 Pounds of Feed.

In an experiment to determine the profit on ducks hatched in incubators, reared in brooders, and sold on the local market at from ten to twelve weeks old, 3.18 pounds of feed per pound of gain were required, the average weight at the end of ten weeks being four pounds, 11.2 ounces per duck.

She is Daughter of Jacob Van Gelder and Writes for Magazines Urging Use of Fruits and Vegetables as Food.

Mrs. Anna Van Gelder Thomas, the defendant in the action brought by her sister, Lily Van Gelder, which was tried before Judge Hasbrouck in the supreme court last Saturday, is a writer of great ability, and has contributed many important articles to various magazines. In the November issue of Health Culture she has an important one upon the use of fruits and vegetables as food. Particularly does she urge the use of strawberries, raspberries, grapes, gooseberries and beans, and speaks very warmly of the lesson taught by older generations of mothers both by precept and example of the value and care of food. Mrs. Thomas, who writes under the nom de plume of Marantha Ann, truly says that the fastidious and experienced housekeeper is the sheet anchor of today's civilization, that spoiled or wasted food is an accusation against any housekeeper.

Horace and the Violin

By Katherine Howe

(Copyright, 1917, by W. G. Chapman.)

"This is outrageous! Maddening! The limit!"

Horace Padden threw down the pencil with which he had been trying to make the first rough draft of his story, and sat back in the chair with murder in his eye. At that moment it is possible he might have done actual violence to the perpetrator of the raucous shrieks from a violin on the floor below. Just then his telephone rang. He got up and answered.

"Yes, let him come up," he called.

Then he let in a man who apologetically said: "Pardon me, old man. I would not have come at this time if it hadn't been important."

"Sit down, Jack," said Padden desperately. "It doesn't matter at all. I couldn't write anyway with that infernal racket underneath."

"Great Scott! That is something of a nerve racket sure enough!" exclaimed the visitor as a screech of the key rose high above the uncanny din.

"What right has a landlord, janitor or anybody to let that loose on a quiet, law-abiding community? When I came here I expressly stipulated that I must have a quiet place, as I was a writer. The third day three years in peace and have annoyed no one to my knowledge. I've had nothing to complain of all now. But there's going to be some complaint go in if this keeps up."

"Maybe it's someone who has to make his living?" suggested Talbot.

"Well, don't I have to make my living?" protested Padden with some heat. "Don't I have to make it write?"

"It's not getting along."

"O! did that crank shut you off for good?" asked Burns.

Fanny was getting red up to her hair. Mrs. Banks was looking utterly miserable, and Padden a mixture of horror and amazement. Then Fanny looked at Burns and spoke: "Well, you've done it! I've been trying to keep the horrible truth from Mr. Padden, having a desire for a small remnant of his respect."

"So you are the crank!" blurted out Burns, turning to Padden.

"I am," acknowledged Padden.

A hearty laugh from all in the room cleared the atmosphere. Fanny at last left alone with Padden asked him if he thought a shred of that respect for her was left. Padden answered: "There is something so much stronger and bigger hammering to be heard, I've decided to leave you alone."

When Fanny got a chance to speak she said: "You see, daddy was determined I should learn the violin. I came down to the city just to please him to study. I knew I hadn't any ear for it, and, well, I'm glad I have such a good excuse to give it up."

WHEN FATHER TELLS A JOKE

Mother Sees Nothing Funny About It, and Daughter's Glance Simply Expresses Pity.

When a man hears a joke which his primitive sense of humor classifies as "the funniest thing he has ever heard" he hurries home to bear the glad tidings to his wife. Father produces his great discovery, but mother's countenance remains untroubled by so much as a smile. Nine wives out of ten will gaze blankly into that interesting emptiness to which woman's eyes are continually traveling over her husband's shoulder. The tenth and truest creature will wither her spouse with a penetrating stare which registers, "I see nothing—absolutely nothing—funny in that."

Disgusted and baffled, the husband tells the same joke to his daughter. Her only indication of amusement is a pitying uplift of the eyebrows and a subsequent absorption in her knitting.

With his finger on the last unbroken string of hope father approaches his nearest masculine relative. At last success is his, for his son or his son-in-law or his uncle roars, applauds and slaps him on the back. Father bows to imaginary audiences and compliments his fellow men on his perspicacity and his fortunate possession of a sense of humor. He pities "those women—those poor defective women."—New York Evening Sun.

None Too Soon.

They were seated in the parlor conversing on the uncertainties of life. She—the future is a vast unfathomable mystery to us, isn't it?

He—Yes, all we know is that we have to go sometime.

Rally Sunday Night.

The rally to be held Sunday night at the Mount Marion church will be in charge of the Flying Squadron of Kingston Local Union, Christian Endeavor.

some business that needed to be looked after.

In the doorway going out he met Miss Adams coming in. Being so full of his grievance, Padden, after the first greeting, must needs pour into her ear an account of his woes. Miss Adams sympathized, and said the violinist probably had no idea he was annoying him so. Perhaps if he found out when Mr. Padden was writing he could arrange his practice hours for another time. Padden said he always wrote in the morning, but his hours were likely to extend to a good part of the day.

"No," he said miserably, "he's not likely to change his hours for me. Any one capable of producing such diabolical shrieks as he draws from the violin could have no consideration for a living soul. He is ready for treason, stratagem and spolia."

Fanny Adams burst into a peal of laughter. Padden looked hurt and indignant. She saw his face and tried to look serious.

"Do pardon me," she said, "you put it so forcibly, and in such picturesque language, I couldn't help seeing the funny side of it."

"Do you know someone in this house?" she asked?

"I live here," he answered.

"Why, then we are neighbors. I am staying for a while with my friend, Mrs. Banks. Do you know her?"

Padden answered that he had not the pleasure. Then Fanny made bold to ask him to call, which he promptly accepted. Then he added: "If you are in this house, you must have heard that fiendish violin. How can you stand it?"

"I can't hardly!" laughed the girl. "But I'm trying to have patience."

Padden sought the Banks apartment very shortly after this having first telephoned to ask if he might. The violin had been silent for two days, and he was in a better frame of mind when he found himself in the presence of Miss Adams, who met and introduced him to a pleasant, elderly lady as Mrs. Banks. After this Padden discovered that the Banks' apartment held charms for him greater than the club, and the next discovery was that he was very much in love with Fanny Adams. One evening Burns came in while Padden was calling on Fanny.

"Hello, sis!" he laughed. "How's the violin getting along?"

"It's not getting along."

"O! did that crank shut you off for good?" asked Burns.

Fanny was getting red up to her hair. Mrs. Banks was looking utterly miserable, and Padden a mixture of horror and amazement. Then Fanny looked at Burns and spoke: "Well, you've done it! I've been trying to keep the horrible truth from Mr. Padden, having a desire for a small remnant of his respect."

"So you are the crank!" blurted out Burns, turning to Padden.

"I am," acknowledged Padden.

A hearty laugh from all in the room cleared the atmosphere. Fanny at last left alone with Padden asked him if he thought a shred of that respect for her was left. Padden answered: "There is something so much stronger and bigger hammering to be heard, I've decided to leave you alone."

When Fanny got a chance to speak she said: "You see, daddy was determined I should learn the violin. I came down to the city just to please him to study. I knew I hadn't any ear for it, and, well, I'm glad I have such a good excuse to give it up."

WHEN FATHER TELLS A JOKE

Mother Sees Nothing Funny About It, and Daughter's Glance Simply Expresses Pity.

When a man hears a joke which his primitive sense of humor classifies as "the funniest thing he has ever heard" he hurries home to bear the glad tidings to his wife. Father produces his great discovery, but mother's countenance remains untroubled by so much as a smile. Nine wives out of ten will gaze blankly into that interesting emptiness to which woman's eyes are continually traveling over her husband's shoulder. The tenth and truest creature will wither her spouse with a penetrating stare which registers, "I see nothing—absolutely nothing—funny in that."

Disgusted and baffled, the husband tells the same joke to his daughter. Her only indication of amusement is a pitying uplift of the eyebrows and a subsequent absorption in her knitting.

With his finger on the last unbroken string of hope father approaches his nearest masculine relative. At last success is his, for his son or his son-in-law or his uncle roars, applauds and slaps him on the back. Father bows to imaginary audiences and compliments his fellow men on his perspicacity and his fortunate possession of a sense of humor. He pities "those women—those poor defective women."—New York Evening Sun.

THE RAIN.

"It's just too annoying," said the Rain Drops as they fell to the earth.

"What's the trouble?" asked the King of the Clouds. He had told the Rain Drops to fall to the earth for he said that Mr. Sun wanted a rest in the first place and in the second the earth needed rain.

The sun had gone to pay calls and had no intention of coming back so it was the duty of the Rain Drops to keep on splashing down to the earth. But they were mad! Oh, how mad they were! And the King of the Clouds had to come down to the earth and find out what they were about. He splashed in his great, tall rain-boots which he wears all the time, because when it is not raining he is asleep and resting. And he began talking to the Rain Drops.

"Tell me," he asked again, "what is the trouble?"

"We are angry and we don't want to work any more," said the Rain Drops.

"Goodness, gracious me," said the King of the Clouds, "you don't think you are working, do you?"

"Well, we do now," they said. "Of course, we don't as a rule think it is work. We think it is play, for it's the easiest thing in the world for us to do."

"Of course," said the King of the Clouds. "It should be easy for you to do, for you are Rain Drops. That is why I could not understand it when you said you were working and did not want to work any more. If you had said you were playing and were tired of playing I could have understood you much better."

"But tell me all about it," he added. "You see it's this way," began the rain drops. "We like to splatter and splash and play. We like to fill the puddles and give drinks of water to the earth, the plants, the birds, the flowers, the trees. We like to have jokes and to splatter where we're not supposed to and we love to jump up on the ends of people's skirts!"

ASK INCREASE FOR COUNTY AGENT

Request Made to Supervisors to Increase Salary of County Agent for Dependent Children $15 a Month.

The report of Miss Gertrude Bruyn, county agent for dependent children, was submitted to the board of supervisors at Thursday night's session by Miss Grace Hallock, who is acting as agent while Miss Bruyn is on a three months' leave of absence, and she told of the cases which have come up recently, with which readers of The Freeman are familiar. On behalf of the county agent, Admiral Higginson made an earnest plea that the board increase the appropriation for the county agent's salary from $60 a month to $75 a month. The work, he said, was familiar to all the members of the board, and the care of dependent and feeble minded children was a problem that required all the time of the agent. The results justified the employment of an agent, and in view of the increased cost of living it was only fair that the salary should be commensurate with the importance of the work. The request was not acted on by the board but will be taken up later.

By Supervisor Woolsey, to adopt the report of the committee on commissioners of elections' accounts and to raise the amounts recommended for payment of bills.

By Supervisor Woolsey, to adopt the report of the committee on coroners' accounts and to raise the amounts recommended for payment of bills.

Resolutions Adopted

The following resolutions heretofore introduced were called up and adopted:

By Supervisor McElhorne, to adopt the report of the county auditors and raise the amounts recommended.

By Supervisor Schoonmaker, to adopt the report of the committee on town and county accounts and raise the amounts recommended on the towns; also to raise $50 on the county to reimburse the county treasury for examinations in lunacy, and to raise $51,539.30 on the county to reimburse the county treasury for amounts paid for construction of state and county highways.

By Supervisor Van Etten, to adopt the report of the committee on town and county accounts as to expense of fighting forest fires and to levy such amounts on the various towns.

By Supervisor Schoonmaker, to adopt the report of the committee on accounts of superintendent of the poor and to raise on the towns and on the county outside of the city the amounts recommended.

The board adjourned until 7:30 o'clock this evening.

LARGE CROWD SEES THE MOVIES TAKEN

An Old Man and a "Mut" Spoil Some Film and Scenes Have to be Taken Over Again—Much Interest Manifested in the Picture.

"Get out of there, you mut," said with great emphasis of feeling and followed up by some other novel expressions, was a bit of noise that attracted many Kingstonians who happened to be near the court house at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

The "mut" referred to was a curious and playful pup that did his best to attempt to break up a "movie" that was being taken in front of the court house Thursday afternoon and in spite of the vigorous chasing of the aforesaid "mut" by the movie director, the pup succeeded in spoiling some film and it was necessary to take this part of the scene over again.

So the actors and actresses, who with one exception, were local folks, got ready under the direction of the director, to go through the scene again, and everything was all ready and the director was about to holler "crank" to the camera man, when an old man who was not scheduled to appear in the movie drama, deliberately walked in front of the camera.

The "mut" referred to had got the director's "goat," and it can be imagined just what a reception the old man got for butting in.

Once again everything was made ready to take the scene and this time everything passed off smoothly for there were no more interruptions by any old men or "muts."

A large crowd watched the taking of the pictures, both in front of the court house, and the postoffice. The picture will soon be completed and will be shown in this city in the near future.

HEARING BEFORE REFEREE.

Certiorari Proceedings Will be Continued on December 21 and 22.

A hearing was had before the Hon. George McClellan of Columbia county, as referee, at the city hall on Wednesday in the certiorari proceedings brought by the New York Central Railroad Company to review the assessment of the West Shore Railroad in this city for $383,125.

Corporation Counsel William D. Brinley appeared for Morris Block, the city's assessor, Judge Clearwater for the Ulster & Delaware Railroad Company, which was permitted to intervene, the entire day was occupied in the cross-examination by Judge Clearwater of a Mr. Coombs, an expert railroad engineer, who had made an examination of the Central Railroad property for the purpose of testifying as to its value for taxation.

The next hearing will take place on the 21st and 22nd of December.

SWEATERS SENT TO COLORED SOLDIERS

The statement in Mr. Jackson's letter from Camp Dix that three of the colored soldiers from Ulster county were in need of sweaters has met a prompt response from Freeman readers, and the three sweaters were forwarded this morning to Mr. Jackson.

NEW FUNERAL CAR.

Carr Drove New Hearse 790 Miles in Three Days.

Arthur G Carr returned to this city Thursday afternoon from Piqua, Ohio, with a handsome new funeral hearse, which he purchased there, driving the entire distance, over 790 miles, in three days. Owing to congestion on freight embargoes, Mr. Carr rather than be delayed with its delivery went directly to the factory for the car. Mr. Carr left Piqua on Monday morning and arrived in Kingston the first night, a distance of 240 miles. He reports very bad roads from Cleveland to Buffalo and a heavy snow storm in western New York in the vicinity of Batavia. Over 200 miles of the trip were made on snow covered roads. Under road conditions and the difficulties of driving a new car of such weight, Mr. Carr has set a new record in long distance running for Kingston motorists.

Upon its arrival this new car attracted much attention in town. It is an eight column funeral hearse, finished in gray and the interior is paneled throughout in solid mahogany. This makes five cars now connected with the ever increasing business of A. Carr & Son.

As Others See Us.

The usual window display of garment dealers and tailors takes the shape of a number of suits mounted on elaborate stands for the inspection of the passerby. But the average passerby is interested in only one thing. How would he look wearing them? To answer this, Charles H. MacQuiston of Bloomfield, N. J., has invented a simple mirror device which permits any passerby to "wear" any garment on display, says the Scientific American. Briefly, his device consists of a mirror held in position by an adjustable support so as to be in line with the top of a garment placed some distance behind it. Thus, when the passerby stands facing the garment, his head is reflected by the mirror in such a manner that it appears to fit on the garment behind, completing the desired illusion.
